RAIL STRIKE PREVENTION MEASURE PASSED

House of Representatives Takes Favorable Action on Bill That Will Result in Withdrawal of Walkout Order of Men

COMMISSION COULD FIX WAGE SCALE

Employees Say the Enactment of Eight-Hour Law Will Be Satisfactory to Them; Employers Await Developments

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The Adamson eight-hour day bill, which railroad brotherhood officials have said would avert the threatened strike if finally enacted tomorrow night, was passed today by the House and sent to the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The bill to avert the railway strike was passed today by the House of Representatives. Under a special provision for a vote not later than 10 o'clock this afternoon, the House passed the Adamson bill by a vote of 289 to 130.

The bill, which would limit the workday of railroad men to eight hours, was introduced by Representative Adamson of Washington. It provides that if the Senate does not act on the bill by September 15, the strike will be averted.

The bill also provides that a commission be appointed to fix a wage scale for railroad men. The commission is to be composed of representatives of the railroad men, the railroad companies, and the government.

The bill was passed by a vote of 289 to 130. The House also passed a resolution authorizing the president to call out the National Guard to enforce the law.

ROOSEVELT STUMPS FOR HUGHES PLAYS WILSON ADMINISTRATION

Colonel Delivers First Speech of Campaign in Behalf of Presidential Nominee Before Lewiston, Maine, Audience

Address Devoted Largely to Attack on Democrats and Hyphenism; Mexican Stand Undergoes Severe Criticism

THEODORE ROOSEVELT, who in a speech supporting Charles E. Hughes, scored the Democratic administration.

LEWISTON, Maine, Sept. 1.—Progressives united with Republicans in greeting Theodore Roosevelt, who delivered his first speech of the campaign here last night in behalf of Charles E. Hughes, Republican candidate for the presidency.

From the time he arrived in Boston yesterday until he retired to his rooms last night the former President received enthusiastic demonstrations. His address was devoted largely to an attack on the administration and to a criticism of hyphenism.

"Americanism," he said, "is a matter of the spirit, of the soul, of the mind; not a birthplace or creed." The cause of preparedness is inseparably connected with the cause of Americanism or patriotism.

"I am a wholehearted loyalist to this nation, for which the great men of this nation in the past have stood," the colonel said. "It would be a grave mistake to say that I am not."

He attacked the administration of President Wilson, saying it was a failure. He also criticized the Mexican stand and the policy of hyphenism.

Roosevelt charged that the taking of Vera Cruz was war and added: "It was a war which was abandoned because it was a war which failed. But it was a war which was necessary."

The kind of safety first for which Roosevelt stood, he said, was the safety of the nation. He said that the nation was in danger and that it was necessary to take action.

Roosevelt said that he was a wholehearted loyalist to this nation. He said that he was a wholehearted loyalist to this nation. He said that he was a wholehearted loyalist to this nation.

Constantine Abdicates; Crown Prince George Assumes the Regency as Revolution Sways Northern Part of the Country

Bulgarian War Declaration on Rumania Paves Way for Big Allied Offensive to Crush Balkan Foe; Entente Gains

BERLIN, Sept. 1.—A despatch from Constantinople says that at 8 o'clock last night the Turkish government delivered to the Rumanian minister at Constantinople a declaration of war against Rumania.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—A serious revolution has broken out in Northern Greece, and according to Saloniki reports King Constantine has abdicated the throne.

Official despatches from Saloniki this afternoon announced that the revolutionists are in control of one district in Macedonia. The government forces in the Macedonian town of Voden have joined the revolutionists.

The Greek troops in Saloniki were disarmed and interned by the Anglo-French forces, after a crowd of revolutionists had laid siege to the garrison and fighting had resulted. Athens apparently is cut off from communication with the outside world.

No confirmation of the Saloniki reports of King Constantine's abdication have come from the Greek capital, but it is known that a revolutionary party favoring the allies was secretly active.

ASSUMES REGENCY. Crown Prince George, 26 years old, according to Saloniki reports, assumed the regency, following his father's abdication. An idol of the Greek people and a pro-ally in sympathies, he is understood to have the backing of ex-Premier Venizelos, leader of the pro-war party.

The crown prince received his military education, however, at a German military school and has been a member of the German Imperial Guard. He participated in the last two Balkan wars as an officer in the Greek army.

The general mobilization of the Greek army has been ordered. The Saloniki despatch indicated that the revolts were organized by Macedonians who had vainly urged King Constantine to attack the invading Bulgarian army.

JOIN REVOLUTIONISTS. Greek soldiers who had been sent to their homes when the army was recently demobilized joined the revolutionists in attacking the government forces.

Bulgarian declaration of war on Rumania today paved the way for the allied offensive to crush the Bulgars, which is expected soon to begin. Large bodies of Russian troops, transported by the Black Sea, are now threatening Bulgaria from the north, while the armies of six allied nations are preparing to strike from the south.

In both Galicia and Transylvania the Russians and Rumanians have scored important successes in the last twenty-four hours. The Russians resumed offensive operations north of the Carpathians, taking more than 15,000 prisoners and capturing the town of Buzova.

The Rumanians continued to swing forward with both jaws of their "nutcracker" with the Austrians steadily retreating from Southeastern Transylvania.

ABANDON TERRITORY. The Austrians, caught in the center and in danger of being cut off by the jaws of the "nutcracker," have abandoned more than 400 square miles of Transylvanian territory to the invaders. At least a dozen towns and villages have been captured by the Rumanians since war was declared Sunday night.

So rapidly are the Austrians retreating from the center that there has been little heavy fighting and few prisoners have been taken. The Rumanian right wing, linked up with the Russians near the Bukovina frontier, is advancing on the famous Hungarian city of Bistritz, thirty miles from the Rumanian frontier. A Central News despatch from The Hague today said that the Austrians are preparing to evacuate Bistritz.

FIGHTING CONTINUES. Heavy fighting continues along the mountain front leading southward from Bukovina. Along the southern border of Transylvania, the Austrians are attempting to make a firm stand in the mountain passes. The Berlin Tageblatt's correspondent at the Austrian front, admitting the surrender of Kronstadt and other towns to the Rumanians, indicates that the Austrians will fight stubbornly to hold Hermannstadt, former capital of Transylvania, and the Red Tower pass, the mountain gateway approaching Hermannstadt. Should the Rumanians burst through this pass in large force, they might cut off and capture the Austrians retreating from Southeastern Transylvania.

Portugal's further west, however, the Rumanians have placed to Valkan pass, it is admitted at Vienna, and have marched ten miles northward into Transylvania to the railway town of Petroseny.

Oakland Business Man Slain; Wife in Custody

SLEEPING HUSBAND IS VICTIM OF GUN SHOT

William H. Maupin Found by Police, Horribly Mutilated, Dead in Bed After Woman Phones of Tragedy to Her Son

DETECTIVES DISCREDIT STORY OF STRUGGLE

Weird Tale of "Tall, Handsome Man" and Japanese, Accused by Woman, Said to be Contradicted by all the Evidence

William H. Maupin, 382 Isabella street, proprietor of a drayage concern, was murdered in his bed last night under circumstances which have caused the police to place his wife in detinue in the city prison. The woman is cloistered with detectives, who are probing her incoherent story that two strange men, one of whom accused her husband of having broken up his home, are responsible for the crime.

The police do not believe the woman's story. Maupin's head was practically shot from his body. It was evident that he was killed as he slumbered.

The woman's strange tale to the police is that at 10:30 o'clock last night she was awakened from sleep by a knock at the rear door of the house. When she opened the door, she says, two men rushed into the place, one short, dark, and either a Japanese or Hawaiian, and the other a tall, handsome man of about 35 years of age. The short man of foreign appearance, she says, seized her roughly and forced her into the bathroom, where after a struggle, he succeeded in tying her to a drain pipe.

TELLS OF STRUGGLE. While she struggled with the one, she told the police, the other man had gone directly to her husband's bedroom. Shortly after she had been bound she heard a pistol shot and a moment later the tall man came into the room. He told her that he had killed her husband. On one occasion, she said, she peered through the keyhole and saw the flash of two revolvers. In the discussion between the men, part of which she overheard, she said she understood the tall, handsome man to say that he had killed her husband because he had broken up his home.

Although the police place little credence in the woman's story, they have sent a description of the men she speaks of to the police of neighboring cities. No gun was found in the Maupin house. In contradiction of Mrs. Maupin's story that there was a struggle in the bathroom, Captain of Inspectors L. F. Agnew, who worked on the case with Inspectors R. V. McCreary and Joseph Robinson, says that nothing in the bathroom was disturbed. He declares that the small space there would have made it impossible for the ever-tying woman to have occurred without wrecking the place.

OFTEN QUARRELED. Mrs. Maupin admitted to the police that she had often quarreled with her husband and had accused him of being untrue to her. They did not quarrel last night, however, she said. She said that the two strange men did not leave the house until 2 o'clock this morning, spending the time between then and 2 o'clock in the bathroom. She said that they were drinking coffee. She says, further, that they took $56 with them when they left. She then worked herself free from her bonds and telephoned to her son by another married man, Montgomery, 370 Lydia street, telling him of the tragedy. She told him to come to the house, however, and asked him to notify the police, which he did.

Maupin was an old resident of Oakland and had long been in the drayage business here. He was 58 years old. Mrs. Maupin is 56.

WIRE CUT. Mrs. Maupin also told the police that the telephone wires had been cut by her two strange visitors. She said that the wires were cut by the receiver. Had been pulled from the mechanism. Mrs. Maupin went to the home of Miss Emma Stromer, 380 Isabella street, next door to her home, to telephone her son of the tragedy.

While Mrs. Maupin reiterates her strange story of killing of her husband, the police are working to find the two men.

PATTON TO TAKE STUMP IN FIGHT FOR U.S. SENATE

Democratic Nominee in S. F. Conference With His Party Leaders.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—George S. Patton, Democratic nominee for United States Senator, arrived here from Los Angeles this morning, registered at the Palace Hotel and plunged immediately into the work of mapping out a campaign.

Following a conference with party leaders at the hotel Patton announced that he would go on the stump.

I do not want to appear too optimistic as to my chances of election, and I will not enter into any personalities with my opponent, Governor Johnson. I will say, however, that I intend to take the stump and I am going to make a vigorous fight for the office. In Southern California the sentiment is overwhelmingly Democratic. I believe this state is in the doubtful column as regards the November election and I think that the southern section of it will turn the scales in favor of Woodrow Wilson. As to my own fight in that region I do not believe there is any question but what I will be given a large plurality there. The people in Southern California believe that an outrage is being perpetrated on them by the attempt to have both United States Senators from northern men. I am not sure of my figures, but I think if we include Fresno we will have the majority of the population in Southern California. That means that the people of this state can be best protected by the sending of one of its own citizens to Washington.

Precedent has given the south one of the United States Senators and it is dangerous to attempt to violate precedent. As far as Southern California is concerned, I believe that I will get many Republican votes. As to whether I will gather votes from the ranks of the Republicans who supported Willis Booth in the north I do not know and I do not wish to discuss the probabilities in that direction until the Republicans have had their convention at Sacramento and their candidate has made known his platform. I believe my chances are far greater in having only one opponent than if I had been forced to make a three-cornered fight. My policies and my record are well known and I go before the public as an ardent supporter of Woodrow Wilson, believing that the sentiment for him expressed by many Progressives will rebound to my benefit.

MEAT PACKERS TO BUILD PLANT HERE AT ONCE

Oakland Selected by Moran Company for Ten-Acre Site.

Officers of the Moran Packing Company of San Francisco asked the City of Oakland today to amend the industrial zone ordinance to permit them to erect a $300,000 meat packing plant on a ten-acre site at Seventy-third avenue, near the bay, between the tracks of the Southern and Western Pacific companies. City Attorney Paul C. Mori was instructed to prepare an amendment to the existing ordinance, designating the land purchased by the company as a part of one of the city's industrial zones.

According to Frederick Whitson, manager of the concern, one of the most modern meat packing plants in the West is to be erected on the new site, the purchase of which was completed today. The plant will deal exclusively with the production of pork products.

The company has a large plant in San Francisco at the present time. This is to be removed to Oakland with the completion of the new plant. A comprehensive system of spur tracks, connecting the plant with both the Southern Pacific and the Western Pacific roads, is to be installed. Eventually a wharf may be constructed in San Leandro bay near the company's property, to arrange for the import and export of products.

More than 100 men are to be employed in the local plant the first year. This number will be increased as the business grows. The buildings of the new plant will be so constructed as to provide for a large growth in the company's business. Permits for the construction will be applied for soon, and the work begin within a short time. The new plant will probably be ready for occupancy by the first of the year.

A large portion of the property purchased by the Moran Company is not now included in the industrial zone of the East Oakland district. A portion of it is now in the existing zone. The amendment asked provides for the inclusion of the entire tract in the zone. The amended ordinance will probably be introduced in council next Monday.

Oakland Railways Ask Reduction of Capital

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 1.—The Oakland Railway today filed an application with the Secretary of State for a reduction of the capital stock from $27,000,000 to $2,700,000, declaring it to be an expedient step.

"The Oakland Railway is an old holding corporation which was organized in 1912," said W. I. Brobeck, attorney for the San Francisco-Milford Terminal Railway, this afternoon. "It was formed for the purpose of issuing holding notes, and has no other connection with the operating company. Recent laws enacted by the California legislature imposed a tax upon corporations in proportion to the capitalization, and as the capitalization of the Oakland Railway company was far in excess of the needs for which it was organized and still exists, the application is made to reduce the capital stock to a figure more commensurate with the value."

claim they are slowly breaking down the tale. For instance, they say she told them that she noted a large tattoo mark on the hand of the man with whom she struggled in the bathroom.

"Was there a light in the bathroom?" Agnew asked her.

"No," Mrs. Maupin is said to have replied.

"I then asked her how she could have seen the tattoo marks, and she did not answer me," Agnew said. "There is nothing in the house disturbed. There is no sign of a struggle of any kind."

Mrs. Maupin supplemented her story after she had been in prison a time, saying that in July of last year a tall, handsome blonde woman called on her and told her that her husband, Maupin, was her lover and said that he had gotten her "in trouble." In November of last year Mrs. Maupin is alleged to have told the officers a strange man called upon her and said that he was the husband of the

SCHAEFFER WINS IN 38TH DISTRICT

Complete Returns Now Tabulated by County Clerk Show Contests.

Revision of the election results in the 410 precincts of Alameda county give the following figures:

UNITED STATES SENATOR.
Johnson	22,506
Booth	17,622

CONGRESSMAN.
Elston	16,189
Crosby	12,532
Derrick	5,116

A canvass of the votes in the thirty-eighth assembly district, ordered by the Board of Supervisors because the election board in Precinct 134 had failed to tabulate the votes cast for Louis Schaeffer, showed the following result: Schaeffer, 168; R. J. Calkhan, 1069.

The showing made by Schaeffer in many respects remarkable. Running as a straight Republican and opposed by a strong organization, Schaeffer was compelled to make a single-handed fight. In the thirty-ninth assembly district Fred E. Stewart will contest the return which gave him 1475 votes as against 1599 for Frank W. Anderson, his nearest opponent.

Child Labor Bill Signed by Wilson

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—President Wilson today signed the child labor bill. The ceremony was witnessed by Secretary Wilson, Secretary Robinson, Representative Keating, Julian Lathrop, chief of the children's bureau of the labor department, and a large group of men and women interested in the legislation. "I want to say that it is with real emotion that I sign this bill," the President said, "because I know how long the struggle has been to secure legislation of this sort and what it is going to mean to the health and vigor of the country and also to the happiness of those whom it affects. It is with genuine pride that I play my part in completing this legislation. I congratulate the country and felicitate myself."

Later von Walden appeared before Police Judge Sullivan, arraigned on a robbery charge, and his case continued until Monday.

HUGHES TELLS OF BIG EXPENDITURES

Candidate Says Democratic Administration Is Most Extravagant in History.

SALINA, Kas., Sept. 1.—Charles E. Hughes charged the present administration with being the most extravagant in the history of the United States, in a brief address today. From the rear platform of his car at Ellsworth, the nominee said:

"I understand from high authority that we shall have in present appropriations—outside of preparedness and all increased appropriations for army and navy and fortifications—outside of all those appropriations that will exceed by $150,000,000 the appropriations of any former Congress in time of peace, and exceed even the appropriations we had in the Civil War."

The four days of rest at Estes Park left their imprint in the governor's sunburned face, a smattering out of the wrinkles of tiredness that had appeared from the exertions of the first three weeks of his campaign. Dr. M. E. Dittman, who has accompanied the governor ever since leaving New York, examined him today and declared him in perfect physical condition. Thereupon the doctor decided the governor didn't need a doctor any longer and left the party.

Today Hughes had another fairly easy program—rear-end-of-the-train speeches at Hays, Junction City and Lawrence, and set speeches at Topeka and Kansas City. At the last-named place the nominee will deliver his biggest speech of the day at a night meeting.

The Republican candidate found Kansas Republican leaders unanimous in their assertions that the state would be Republican.

"The Progressives and regulars have declared a truce, for the present campaign," was the way William Allen White of Emporia, Kan., former Progressive leader, summarized the situation.

"The two forces will join for the present, but when this election is over there will be the same old division as to state offices."

ROOSEVELT OPENS CAMPAIGN FOR HUGHES

COLONEL FLAYS DEMOCRATIC ADMINISTRATION

President Wilson's advocates stand in duty last, honor last, courage do not believe in it. I believe that it is obtained at the cost moral degradation in the present and at the risk of national ruin in the future.

EXPLAINS OBJECT.

Colonel Roosevelt explained his object supporting Hughes thus: "I come here to Maine to advocate the election of Charles E. Hughes as President of the United States, and the election of a Senate and House of Representatives to support him, and to give some of the reasons why in my judgment it would be a grave misfortune for the people of the United States to re-elect Mr. Wilson."

I make no merely partisan appeal. I ask the support of all good Americans. And I do not merely ask, but demand as a matter of right, that every citizen voting this year shall consider the question of the election of Charles E. Hughes, and not from the standpoint of any other nation.

The root idea of American citizenship is the necessary prerequisite for patriotic service at home, and for practice abroad. There must be no dual allegiance. There must be no loyalty between this country and the country from which any of our citizens, or the ancestors of any of our citizens, have come. The policy of the United States must be to divide with a view to two conditions only: first, with a view to the honor and interest of the United States; and second, with a view to its interest in the world as a whole.

It is therefore our duty, both to prepare our own strength so as to be able to treat every foreign crisis, and to treat every foreign crisis, as its own crisis. It is our duty to prepare our own strength so as to be able to treat every foreign crisis, and to treat every foreign crisis, as its own crisis.

A single, official expression by the Government of the United States, a single sentence denying assent and recording disapproval of what Germany did in Belgium, would have given to the people of America leadership to which they were entitled in their earnest groping for the light. It would have brought to American leadership the respect and strength of loyalty to a great cause. But it was not to be. The American Government failed to rise to the demands of the great occasion.

PEACE STILL RAGING.

At this moment Mr. Wilson, and Mr. Wilson's tugmen, advance as his greatest claim that "he has kept out of the war." Now, that we are seriously made only by individuals who endorse President Wilson's belief that peace is something, and words everything. War means a clash between the armed forces of two nations. It is not a professional pacifist as to the millitaries. It is quite as much to the professional pacifists as to the millitaries. It is the further destruction of the lives of civilians, and the property of civilians, as well as the property of the government. Under President McKinley we had a war with Spain. Under President Wilson we have a war with Mexico.

States troops. On the next day the President issued an announcement that adequate forces would be sent in pursuit of Villa with the single object of capturing him. On April 8, the announcement was made from the White House that the true Villa was captured. It was furthermore announced that the President was in Washington in the press despatches taken "dead or alive." Fine words! Only the truth means nothing. He is not dead. He has not been taken alive.

On May 12, the pursuit of Villa was formally abandoned. On June 1, the official figures of the expedition were published, and they showed that the expedition had killed one hundred and sixteen United States soldiers and ninety-five American civilians. Since the expedition was launched, the press has been full of reports of the killing of Americans. Let me repeat this. wished to alter it for them in all kinds of ways, from land, tenures, up and down. But, as he never followed any policy of either intervention or non-intervention with any resolution—always yielding at the critical moment to some blundering chief of whom he became fearful—both his spasms of intervention and his spasms of non-intervention have been equally futile. In August, 1913, he sent a special envoy to Mexico to tell Huerta that he would recognize him if he would not recognize him. He announced this himself in a note in October, and on December 2 he announced that he would not deal with the Huerta government. This was intervention, and nothing else. It was such intervention as if in 1877 some European government had declined to recognize Hayes as President, and insisted upon the seating of Childen. Mr. Wilson intervened when he backed Villa against Huerta. He intervened when he turned against Villa, and recognized Carranza.

WILSON HITS SOFT. It should be a cardinal rule of conduct in international affairs in individual affairs never to hit if hitting can possibly be avoided; but never under any circumstances to hit soft. Mr. Wilson has been engaged in continual hitting. But he has always hit soft. And whenever his opponent has hit back, he has promptly dropped his arms, stooped his head, and taken refuge in platitudes about peace, non-intervention and humanitarianism.

Where, however, his opponent was sufficiently weak, as in the case of Huerta, he has dropped his plattitudes, and has with "blood-spilling" intervened. Huerta did not believe that he was being hit; he believed that he was being hit; but Mr. Wilson intervened, fought the Huertians, shedding their blood, and the blood of our troops, took possession, and now has our armed forces in control of Huerta and directing its government. His course only if his course of action in Mexico is unqualifiedly condemned; for such action was far more needed in Mexico than in Haiti. But there was a difference in the two cases; and to Mr. Wilson it was a vital difference. Haiti was weaker than Mexico. No one was afraid of Haiti.

It is not a pleasant task to point out these lamentable failures in our foreign policy during the last few years. If they were unimportant to the nation, if they only affected Mr. Wilson personally, I would gladly keep silent about them. If they were isolated and exceptional, I would pass them by. But they are typical of the policy of drift to which this nation has been committed during those great and terrible years when we have needed at the helm a firmer hand than at any other time since the Civil War. If the policy of drift is sanctioned by the nation, and is permitted for a sufficient length of time, we shall surely face national shipwreck.

I believe that when the American people realize that the issue is squarely before them they will put duty first and not safety first, and I believe that only by so doing will they secure real and ultimate safety. I believe that they will support a policy of national action demanding a spirit of national courage. The American people are at heart moral idealists and enthusiasts, and in the past they have again and again responded to some appeal for practical action, calling for idealism to perceive it and enthusiasm and self-devotion in order to achieve it.

ABANDONED BY WILSON. In all this shameful history of Mr. Wilson's dealings with Mexico during the past three years, nothing has been more shameful than his conduct at Tampico. At the time the particular bandit Mr. Wilson was fighting was not Villa. This, however, is of no consequence. Mr. Wilson has sometimes helped the different Mexican leaders of bandits against one another; now Villa against Huerta; now Carranza against Villa; but he never stood up effectively for American rights against any of them. When he has ventured to fight against any of them, he has always been abandoned by the bandit involved because serious.

At Tampico there was a general movement of attack by the Mexicans on Americans and other foreigners. We had a squadron of American warships in the neighborhood. The Wilson administration declined to permit this squadron to be used to defend the lives of Americans and the honor of American women, and the commanders of the German and English ships at Tampico had to step in and perform the task our representative had so basely abandoned. At the very time that the Mexican mob had surrounded the building in which the Americans had taken refuge, and was howling for their blood, the American fleet, in spite of protests of the American naval commander, and in accordance with wireless orders from Washington, was forced to steam out of the harbor and leave the Americans to be massacred by the Mexicans, or rescued by the Germans and English. The case has been well known, and without successful contradiction, by an expert in naval matters, Mr. Reuter, who has written with gravity and seriousness that in this case the offense of the murderous Mexican mob was not a serious one, the offense of the American administration.

DEEDS ALWAYS WANTING. On August 27, 1913, President Wilson said with marked oratorical effect: "We shall vigilantly watch the fortunes of those Americans who cannot get away from Mexico." "Vigilant watching" is a watchful waiting; the phrase matters nothing; for there never is any deed to back it up. Three years have passed since the date of this oration, and years of incessant elocution on the part of Mr. Wilson; three years of repeated invocations to humanity and peace by Mr. Wilson; and Mr. Wilson still continues to "vigilantly watch the fortunes of those Americans who cannot get away." There have been many of them left now. Hundreds have been killed. Mr. Wilson has watched their fortunes as disinterestedly as if they had been rats pursued by terrified cats. His administration has displayed no more feeling of responsibility for the American women who have been raped, and for the American men, women and children who have been killed in Mexico, than a farmer who shows for the rats killed by his dogs when they are taken from a barn. And now the American people are asked to sanction this policy in the name of peace, righteousness and humanity.

WILSON WARS FUTILE. President Wilson took Vera Cruz in 1914, as we were officially informed at the time, to get the flag, and to prevent the shipment of arms into Mexico. He did not get his salute. He did not prevent the shipment of arms. But several hundred men were killed or wounded, and then he brought the army home without achieving either object. President Wilson sent an army into Mexico in 1916, and he was informed at the time, to get Villa "dead or alive." They did not get him dead. They did not get him alive. Again several hundred men were killed and wounded. Again President Wilson sent the army home without achieving his object. Of course it is a mere play upon words to say that there were no "wars." They were wars, and nothing else; ignoble, pointless, unsuccessful little wars, but wars. They cost millions of dollars, and hundreds of lives, squandered to no purpose; they accomplished nothing; but they were wars.

Mr. Wilson's defenders say that he "has kept us out of war." As a matter of fact his policy in Mexico has combined all the evils of feeble peace with all the evils of feeble war. He has secured none of the benefits of war; but he has not avoided war. He has sacrificed the honor and the interest of the country, and he has not received the thirty pieces of silver. In fact, when Mr. Wilson has been at war, for example, on May 11, 1914, in an address over the heads of the dead marines at the Brooklyn (in which, by the way, he in effect claimed sympathy on the ground that his feelings were as much lacerated by sneers as the bodies of the dead men by bullets), he said that the marines were engaged in a "war of service." A war of service to whom or what? Certainly not to the United States, nor to Mexico; nor to humanity at large. Was it to Mr. Wilson?

As it is with "war," so it is with "intervention." President Wilson has been at war, and again he would not "intervene." In Mexico, a matter of fact he has intervened continuously. On January 8, 1915, he announced that the Mexicans had the right to "spill blood," to spill as much blood as they pleased without interference. The fact that the blood they were spilling included the blood of American citizens, both soldiers and civilians, and among the women and children—evidently did not trouble him. On December 10, 1915, he said that it was not of our business what the Mexicans did with their government, and so long as they have the honor of it nobody shall butt in to alter it. He said that "butting in" for two years had been "butting in" ever since; and he has avowed that he blood, and the blood of our troops, took possession, and now has our armed forces in control of Huerta and directing its government. His course only if his course of action in Mexico is unqualifiedly condemned; for such action was far more needed in Mexico than in Haiti. But there was a difference in the two cases; and to Mr. Wilson it was a vital difference. Haiti was weaker than Mexico. No one was afraid of Haiti.

They were wars, and nothing else; ignoble, pointless, unsuccessful little wars, but wars. They cost millions of dollars, and hundreds of lives, squandered to no purpose; they accomplished nothing; but they were wars.

Mr. Wilson's defenders say that he "has kept us out of war." As a matter of fact his policy in Mexico has combined all the evils of feeble peace with all the evils of feeble war. He has secured none of the benefits of war; but he has not avoided war. He has sacrificed the honor and the interest of the country, and he has not received the thirty pieces of silver. In fact, when Mr. Wilson has been at war, for example, on May 11, 1914, in an address over the heads of the dead marines at the Brooklyn (in which, by the way, he in effect claimed sympathy on the ground that his feelings were as much lacerated by sneers as the bodies of the dead men by bullets), he said that the marines were engaged in a "war of service." A war of service to whom or what? Certainly not to the United States, nor to Mexico; nor to humanity at large. Was it to Mr. Wilson?

As it is with "war," so it is with "intervention." President Wilson has been at war, and again he would not "intervene." In Mexico, a matter of fact he has intervened continuously. On January 8, 1915, he announced that the Mexicans had the right to "spill blood," to spill as much blood as they pleased without interference. The fact that the blood they were spilling included the blood of American citizens, both soldiers and civilians, and among the women and children—evidently did not trouble him. On December 10, 1915, he said that it was not of our business what the Mexicans did with their government, and so long as they have the honor of it nobody shall butt in to alter it. He said that "butting in" for two years had been "butting in" ever since; and he has avowed that he blood, and the blood of our troops, took possession, and now has our armed forces in control of Huerta and directing its government. His course only if his course of action in Mexico is unqualifiedly condemned; for such action was far more needed in Mexico than in Haiti. But there was a difference in the two cases; and to Mr. Wilson it was a vital difference. Haiti was weaker than Mexico. No one was afraid of Haiti.

It is not a pleasant task to point out these lamentable failures in our foreign policy during the last few years. If they were unimportant to the nation, if they only affected Mr. Wilson personally, I would gladly keep silent about them. If they were isolated and exceptional, I would pass them by. But they are typical of the policy of drift to which this nation has been committed during those great and terrible years when we have needed at the helm a firmer hand than at any other time since the Civil War. If the policy of drift is sanctioned by the nation, and is permitted for a sufficient length of time, we shall surely face national shipwreck.

I believe that when the American people realize that the issue is squarely before them they will put duty first and not safety first, and I believe that only by so doing will they secure real and ultimate safety. I believe that they will support a policy of national action demanding a spirit of national courage. The American people are at heart moral idealists and enthusiasts, and in the past they have again and again responded to some appeal for practical action, calling for idealism to perceive it and enthusiasm and self-devotion in order to achieve it.

ABANDONED BY WILSON. In all this shameful history of Mr. Wilson's dealings with Mexico during the past three years, nothing has been more shameful than his conduct at Tampico. At the time the particular bandit Mr. Wilson was fighting was not Villa. This, however, is of no consequence. Mr. Wilson has sometimes helped the different Mexican leaders of bandits against one another; now Villa against Huerta; now Carranza against Villa; but he never stood up effectively for American rights against any of them. When he has ventured to fight against any of them, he has always been abandoned by the bandit involved because serious.

At Tampico there was a general movement of attack by the Mexicans on Americans and other foreigners. We had a squadron of American warships in the neighborhood. The Wilson administration declined to permit this squadron to be used to defend the lives of Americans and the honor of American women, and the commanders of the German and English ships at Tampico had to step in and perform the task our representative had so basely abandoned. At the very time that the Mexican mob had surrounded the building in which the Americans had taken refuge, and was howling for their blood, the American fleet, in spite of protests of the American naval commander, and in accordance with wireless orders from Washington, was forced to steam out of the harbor and leave the Americans to be massacred by the Mexicans, or rescued by the Germans and English. The case has been well known, and without successful contradiction, by an expert in naval matters, Mr. Reuter, who has written with gravity and seriousness that in this case the offense of the murderous Mexican mob was not a serious one, the offense of the American administration.

DEEDS ALWAYS WANTING. On August 27, 1913, President Wilson said with marked oratorical effect: "We shall vigilantly watch the fortunes of those Americans who cannot get away from Mexico." "Vigilant watching" is a watchful waiting; the phrase matters nothing; for there never is any deed to back it up. Three years have passed since the date of this oration, and years of incessant elocution on the part of Mr. Wilson; three years of repeated invocations to humanity and peace by Mr. Wilson; and Mr. Wilson still continues to "vigilantly watch the fortunes of those Americans who cannot get away." There have been many of them left now. Hundreds have been killed. Mr. Wilson has watched their fortunes as disinterestedly as if they had been rats pursued by terrified cats. His administration has displayed no more feeling of responsibility for the American women who have been raped, and for the American men, women and children who have been killed in Mexico, than a farmer who shows for the rats killed by his dogs when they are taken from a barn. And now the American people are asked to sanction this policy in the name of peace, righteousness and humanity.

PLANS MADE TO OFFSET RAIL STRIKE

Railroads Having Terminals in Bay Region Send Final Warnings to Employees and Line Up Operating Forces

Southern Pacific Ferry Boats Probably Will Be Run to Key Route Piers: Food Prices Slump as Markets Fill Up

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—Preparations for the threatened railroad strike continued today, despite the apparent change for the better brought about by the introduction in Congress of legislation to avert trouble.

Today the employees of the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe are receiving final friendly warnings from the companies, reminding them that any man striking forfeits his right to pension and his seniority rights. In addition, the company is posting notices in all waiting rooms, ticket offices and freight depots, warning passengers and shippers that tickets will be sold, or shipments received, only when the destination can be reached by tomorrow night. High board fences, with barbed wire on top, have been built around the terminal yards of the Southern Pacific, Western Pacific, Santa Fe and Northwestern Pacific.

Today railroads report that more of their employees have definitely decided to remain with the company. With these and a reserve force of pensioned employees and former trainmen called here, they expect to operate several trains daily. Even the Southern Pacific's transbay ferry service probably will continue in case of a strike for arrangements were made whereby the Southern Pacific ferries, which are not affected by the strike, will operate between the ferry here and the Key Route pier.

Express companies have issued a notice that any goods they receive for shipment will be accepted only subject to delay. They will give their attention to taking up the milk supply of the city.

There was further assurance today that the price of foodstuffs will be lower rather than higher as a result of the strike and embargo. This was noted in the slumping of the prices of all fruits and vegetables owing to unusually heavy shipments.

Navy Yard Has Steel for Two Months' Work

VALLEJO, Sept. 1.—With 1128 tons of steel material on hand for the superdreadnaught California and several hundred tons for the destroyer Caldwell in the storehouse, officials at the Mare Island navy yard declare that there will be no interruption to the construction of the two naval vessels in the event that the railroad strike takes place next Monday. There is work in sight for two months without the necessity for fresh supplies.

Several thousand tons of steel are now on the way to the yards somewhere in the vicinity of Sacramento and it is hoped that these shipments will arrive by Sunday night. Other carloads are on the way from Pittsburgh and will be delayed by the strike. So far as can be foreseen, however, the activities in the yards will not be suspended for a moment because of the rail disturbances.

Conductors Petition Court to Halt Strike

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 1.—G. Harrison and four other Louisville & Nashville railroad conductors, who are in the circuit court here today seeking to restrain A. D. Dye, general chairman, and the general representatives of the Louisville & Nashville railroad in the national board of the Order of Railway Conductors from issuing a strike notice.

Railroads Will Oppose Law for 8-Hour Day

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—While Congress is preparing to rush legislation which is believed will avert a railroad strike, central western railroad executives today indicated they would carry their fight against an eight-hour bill to the supreme court of the United States. They said such a bill might postpone a strike, but would not settle the trouble.

That Congressional legislation would be resisted was indicated by Hale Holden, president of the Burlington, chief spokesman for the western executives, and E. P. Ripley, president of the Santa Fe.

"It is my understanding that the supreme court of the United States has held recently in two cases that Congress has absolutely no power to fix wages. That is what the Adamson bill amounts to, according to my understanding," said Holden.

"Even if Congress passes the bill, that doesn't mean the railroads will agree to it. I don't think they will," said Ripley. "The unions might accept the bill and postpone the strike or call it off, but that will not settle the matter. It would be up to the government to sue the railroads to compel payment of increases in wages. Then it would be a matter for the courts."

"I can't see where action by Congress on this basis would settle the controversy. In fact, I don't think it would," Ripley, concluded.

Modification of embargoes by western roads was looked for today. Announcement by the Santa Fe that perishable freight, excepting livestock, would be accepted after Monday at the owners' risk was taken to mean that road looked for a postponement of the strike.

Other trunk lines with headquarters in Chicago have not yet issued similar orders, but freight officials are expecting them.

The text of the railroad executives' statement says:

The managements of the railroads are disregarding reports from Washington regarding the possibility of the strike being prevented and are proceeding exactly as they would if they were certain that it was going to occur on a scheduled time at 7 o'clock on the morning of September 4.

It will be recalled that for about eight months the railway managements have been warning the government and the people of the United States that the danger of a nation-wide strike was real and serious. On the other hand, soothing assurances have been given throughout this time by officers of the United States Government and even by spokesmen of the government who attempted to minimize the gravity of the situation were wrong.

The leaders of the railway brotherhoods are playing a desperate game and, as they say now that they will not recall their strike order until they bring from Congress the legislation they demand, for anybody to act on the assumption that there will be no strike would be foolish and might prove to be extremely unfortunate.

EFFECTS ALREADY FELT.

The orders which the managements of the railways have issued, placing embargoes on the shipment of most kinds of freight and directing that other kinds of freight shall be accepted subject to delay, are rapidly being felt by effect and shippers, consignees and the public are beginning to feel the results of the strike without it having actually occurred.

It should be fully recognized, however, that the railroads, in taking these steps, are not merely protecting their own interests, but that in a larger measure they are protecting the interests of the public and the country by causing inconvenience and loss to the public they are causing greater proportionate loss and inconvenience to themselves.

If the strike occurs it will be much better for all concerned for goods, which in the absence of embargoes would be shipped, to be left in the hands of their owners where they can properly care for them, than for them to be in the hands of the railways, which probably could not properly care for them.

TRAVELERS ARE WARNED.

It is to be hoped that travelers, as well as shippers, will act on the warning of the railways and not start upon journeys which cannot be finished before the strike order goes into effect.

The railroads believe that in standing out for arbitration even at the cost of a strike, they have been trying to protect not only their own interests, but those of the country.

It will be the policy of the railways to give the public all information concerning the situation which will not embarrass them in handling the strike, should it occur.

WILL DEMAND PROTECTION.

It is clearly to the interest of the public that if a strike comes the railroads shall be able to maintain once they are in possession of their service from the start, and that they shall be able steadily and rapidly to increase it.

How much service they will be able to maintain, and how rapidly they will be able to increase it, will necessarily depend upon the protection given their employees and property by the police authorities.

It is to be assumed that while the railways are putting forth every effort to deal with the governmental bodies and especially those of the municipalities, they will also be making ample preparations to deal with the employees and property from every form of interference and violence.

Text of Measure That Is Expected to Avert Strike

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Following is the text of the revised eight-hour bill that is to be passed by the House and Senate for the purpose of preventing a railway strike:

A BILL
To Establish an Eight-Hour Day for Employees of Carriers Engaged in Interstate and Foreign Commerce and for Other Purposes.

Be it enacted, etc., that December 1, 1916, eight hours shall in contracts for labor and service be deemed a day's work and the measure or standard of a day's work for the purpose of reckoning the compensation for service of all employees who are now or may hereafter be employed by a common carrier or by a railroad which is subject to the provisions of the act of February 1, 1887, entitled "An act to regulate commerce," as amended, and who are now or may hereafter be actually engaged in any capacity in the operation of trains used for the transportation of persons or property on railroads, from any state or territory of the United States or the District of Columbia, to any other state or territory of the United States or the District of Columbia, or from one place in a territory to another place in the same territory or from any place in the United States through a foreign country to any other place in the United States.

Section 2.—That the President shall appoint a commission of three which shall observe the operation and effect of the institution of the eight-hour standard work day as above defined and the facts and conditions affecting the relations between such common carriers and employees during a period of not less than six months nor more than nine months, in the discretion of the commission, and within thirty days thereafter said commission shall report its findings to the President and Congress; that each member of the commission created under the provisions of this act shall receive such compensation as may be fixed by the President. The sum of $25,000 or so much thereof as may be necessary, be, and hereby is, appropriated out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated for the necessary and proper expenses incurred in connection with the work of such commission, including salaries, per diem; traveling expenses of members and employees and rent, furniture, office fixtures and supplies, books, salaries and other necessary expenses, the same to be approved by the chairman of the commission and audited by the proper accounting officers of the treasury.

Section 3.—That pending the report of the commission, herein provided for, and for a period of thirty days thereafter, the compensation of railway employees subject to this act for a standard day's wage and for all necessary time in excess of eight hours such employees shall be paid at the rate not less than the pro rata rate for such standard eight-hour work day.

Section 4.—That any person violating any provision of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined not less than $100 and not more than $1000 or imprisoned not to exceed one year, or both.

Charge Conspiracy to Raise Food Prices

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Conspiracy to raise food prices because of the threatened nation-wide railroad strike is alleged in a letter sent to the federal authorities here today by Joseph J. Harrington, commissioner of the bureau on weights and measures. One hundred and sixty carloads of poultry, about 640,000 chickens, were being shipped in the yards of three of the large railroads in restraint of trade, says Commissioner Harrington, in violation of the interstate commerce act.

Attorneys for several of the eastern trunk lines were being taken to test in the United States Supreme Court the legality of the Adamson compromise eight-hour bill if that measure becomes law.

RAIL STRIKE PREVENTION BILL IS UP

Congress Expected to Take Favorable Action on Measure That Will Result in Withdrawal of Walkout Order

Employees Say the Enactment of Eight-Hour Law Will Be Satisfactory to Them; Employers Await Developments

There was every prospect that the legislation would be passed by both houses of Congress before tomorrow night.

LEADERS CONFER.

A. B. Garretson and other leaders conferred with Congress leaders this afternoon. President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor was making feverish efforts to get in touch with Garretson and the other brotherhood men. One group of the railroadmen locked themselves in the 'House ways and means committee, and the doorkeeper, a brotherhood man, denied that any one was present.

Later, it was learned that the brotherhood chiefs had interceded their confidants in Congress that they were opposed to the amendment, but would accept it if forced to do so.

One paragraph in the Senate bill which labor advocates fear will be bitterly opposed by the brotherhoods declares:

"Any person who shall willfully delay, obstruct or hinder operations of trains shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and punished by a fine not exceeding $5000 and imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both."

MAJORITY PLAN.

After a twenty-minute session the committee of six Senate Republicans authorized to draft new legislation was informed that the majority plan is to rush through the bill if it had framed at once and stay in session all night if necessary to pass them.

The Republicans adjourned without action of any kind.

There are indications that the plan to draft substitute bills probably will be abandoned. Opposition to the legislation was voiced by Representative Green, Republican, Vt.

"When any body of men holds up Congress and threatens a national calamity," he said, "it is time for us to fix the responsibility for the act on those men rather than yield to them under duress."

Representative Cooper, Republican of Ohio, told the story that for twenty years he had worked in the engine cab and knew from his experience what railroad conditions were.

"The men are justified," he said, "in asking their employers for better holiday. The proposed legislation provides the only way to avert the strike set for Monday."

"When you say these employees have threatened and held up Congress and conspired for this legislation, you say what is absolutely untrue," said Representative Taggart, Democrat, Kansas.

CALLS MAKE-SHIFT.

"This bill is a make-shift pure and simple," said Representative Brown, Indiana, Republican, New Jersey.

Representative Caldwell, of New York, Borland of Missouri and Raker, California, Democrat, urged a strong vote in favor of the bill.

Representative Lenroot, of Wisconsin, Republican, applauded on the Democratic side, said he expected to vote for the bill. Many others spoke briefly on both sides.

Democratic Leader Kitchin called up the Adamson bill soon after the House met.

"I ask unanimous consent for its immediate consideration," said he. "I object," said Republican Leader Mann.

Representative Harrison, Democrat, then offered the special rule and there was discussion on that. Mr. Harrison said Congress in the interest of the American people ought to pass this bill by Saturday night and avert the strike.

Representative Bennett, Republican, denounced the proposed legislation.

There are worse things than strikes," said Bennett, "and one of those things is the destruction of the American system of government. I don't propose to cast my vote with a pistol at my head."

Representative Cooper of Ohio, Republican, denied that labor was holding up Congress, as Mr. Bennett charged.

The rule was adopted without a record vote and general debate on the bill itself then began.

Wilson Away for Summer White House

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—President Wilson left here this afternoon for the summer 'White House, Shadow Lawn, at Long Branch, N. J., where he will be formally notified tomorrow of his re-nomination. Mrs. Wilson and a large force of clerks accompanied the President. Arrangements were made at the White House today for sending to Shadow Lawn by special messenger the bill to meet the threatened railroad strike as soon as it is possible.

Leaving Long Branch tomorrow night President Wilson expects to arrive in Washington early Sunday morning, stay here three hours and then depart for Hodgenville, Ky., where on Monday he will accept the birth place of Abraham Lincoln for the nation.

N. Y. Food Prices Take Big Jump

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—The ultimate consumer got a bigger foretaste of railroad strike conditions today from a sharp advance in prices of food. Dealers attributed the raise to embargoes on perishable products put into effect last night and to prospects of a serious shortage if the strike is called. The New York City authorities are considering means to check exorbitant price raising, although doubt exists as to their legal rights in this respect.

Engineers Refused to Strike, Report

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Sept. 1.—Reports from authentic sources here today state that the engineers on the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha line have refused to strike.

BE CLEAN INTERNALLY

OVER 500,000 PEOPLE ARE NOW DOING SO.

For many years physicians have agreed that 95 per cent of human life was wasted in the Lower Intestine. In the Lower Intestine; that in our present way of living Nature could not remove all this waste without assistance, no matter how regular we might be, and that the poisons from this waste circulating through the blood pulled us away down below and covering the country with diseases of a serious nature.

During this time the "J. B. L. Cascade" for Internal Draining has been steadily working in favor of their recommendation and those of its users, have been steadily growing in favor. Recently, however, an alarming news which has been covering the country that great surgeons and specialists have been operating on the Lower Intestine in such serious diseases as Tuberculosis, and attribute such conditions of chronic ill health as Nervous Debility and Rheumatism to this neglected waste matter.

These poisons are favorable to the development of Cancer and Tuberculosis (as noted in recent article in the New York Times), has caused Americans to become thoroughly awake to the importance of keeping this Lower Intestine free from all poisonous waste matter, and over 500,000 are now using Internal Baths.

If you try the "J. B. L. Cascade" you will find yourself almost bright, confident and capable—the poisonous waste makes us bilious, dull and nervous.

Internal Baths are Nature's own cure for Constipation—just warm water properly applied. The "J. B. L. Cascade" gently assists Nature.

Dr. Frank J. Goodnow Advocates Institution to Study Legal and Political Problems in Bar Association Address

Johns Hopkins Faculty Man Discusses Private Rights and Administrative Discretion Before Barristers' Session

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—A school, not for the education of lawyers for the practice of the law, but for the study of jurisprudence, in which greater attention would be given to the solution of the many legal and political problems now increasingly arising, was advocated here today by an address by Frank J. Goodnow of Johns Hopkins University, before the meeting of the American Bar Association.

Goodnow, whose subject was "Private Rights and Administrative Discretion," declared that the great changes in our economic and social life makes such an institution necessary. He suggested that it might preferably be established in connection with one of the large universities.

Dr. Goodnow said:

DR. GOODNOW'S ADDRESS.

The gradual change in the United States from an agricultural to an industrial life, and the great increase of urban communities, have presented problems for the solution of which little if any provision was made in the common or statute law which we Americans received from England.

English methods of dealing with what have been spoken of as "matters of police" were based on the law of nuisance. This law, different from private law, dealt with nuisances arising from public nuisances, and apparently authorized any one to abate a public nuisance, while only one specially injured might abate a private nuisance. It did not make effective provision for anything in the nature of a public authority whose duty it was to promote the public safety and convenience. Indeed, almost the only ways in which public authorities participated in nuisance abatement were, first, in the indictment and prosecution of public nuisances; and, second, in determining in the case of nuisances had been privately abated, what were the rights of the parties concerned. For individuals who attempted to exercise their legal rights in the abatement of private or public nuisances did so at the risk of having the courts hold that what had been abated was not a nuisance.

The whole English law on this subject is a good example of those methods of self-help which are characteristic of rather primitive social conditions and of an undeveloped legal system based on individualistic rather than social conceptions.

PROTECTION OF INDIVIDUAL. The individual is thus not sufficiently protected, either through the procedure required as a preliminary to the adoption and issue of regulations, or through the methods of control provided against the arbitrary use of discretion by administrative authorities in the exercise of their powers of regulation.

In the matter of taxation, administrative action of individual application may, if we analyze administrative action generally, be said to be a system based on the purpose of expressing in the concrete case the will of the state. Thus a statute may provide in a general way the taxes which all taxpayers of a certain defined class shall pay. This statute may furthermore be supplemented by administrative regulations such as the detailed and complex regulations with regard to the federal income tax. But no matter how detailed such statutes and regulations may be, it is impossible for any taxpayer to know what amount in dollars and cents of tax he will have to pay before a decision has been reached by the competent administrative authorities.

Senator George Sutherland of Utah was elected president of the American Bar Association for 1917 today.

70-Mile Wind Takes 50 Lives

Island of Dominica Is Center of Storm

ST. THOMAS, D. W. I., Sept. 1.—Fifty lives were lost in a hurricane which struck the British West Indian Island of Dominica Monday night. The wind reached a velocity of more than seventy miles.

Rivers in the island rose to unprecedented heights and carried away bridges. Some streams changed their courses and swept through fields and villages, carrying away houses with their occupants.

The number of houses, schools, churches and other buildings wrecked or seriously damaged exceeds 200.

PIEDMONT PLANS BOND ELECTION

Mass Meeting Approves Move to Submit Issue of $114,000

Piedmont is to have a bond issue of $114,000, should a final vote in that city coincide with approval given the move last night at a mass meeting of residents.

The issue, advanced by the board of trustees and endorsed at the gathering, includes appropriations of $20,000 for a purchase of the fire apparatus and improvement of the fire system of the city, the purchase of Racine and Linda parks for $34,000 and $10,000 for the schools.

The resolution approving the bond issue and the trustees' position was introduced by ex-Mayor Hugh Craig and received the unanimous approval of the entire mass meeting. The proposition of spending the $50,000 left, after the rest of the money had been expended, for the purchase of a new school site in Piedmont met with opposition, and it was decided to hold this particular portion of the plan under advisement. Five acres are included in the parcel of land. The price of the land was regarded as too high by one faction.

The $10,000, which will be appropriated for the schools of Piedmont should the bond issue carry, make up a deficit in the educational funds incurred through non-provision by the board of supervisors.

LAY IN SUPPLIES. REDDING, Cal., Sept. 1.—During the week the Redding stores have been doing a tremendous business with farmers and others, who, anticipating a railroad strike, have laid in big stocks of supplies. Business done by the grocers yesterday more than equaled all that was done in the fore part of the week. Orders for supplies came from many outlying mining camps and towns. All the up-canyon summer resorts were stripped today of summer sojourners, who are scurrying home before the anticipated tie-up comes.

GERMAN AND BOMB TAKEN FROM LINER

Olympic, Converted Into Troop Ship, Narrowly Escapes Disaster.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—When one hour out of Halifax, nine days ago, the great White Star liner Olympic, now a British troop ship, stopped and, while thousands of Canadian soldiers crowded the rail, one of their number was taken off in manacles.

With him went a box that those who bore it handled very gingerly. He was a German spy in a Canadian uniform which he had worn for five years, and the little box contained explosives.

"We heard about it at Halifax," said Judge Daniel A. Dugan of Orange, who told the story on the red cross liner when she arrived here today. "It was his evident intention to blow up the ship and all the soldiers for Europe, including himself."

Auto Just Kept on Going, Wouldn't Stop

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 1.—Albert Pearson, 22 years old, before Judge Breckenridge in the Superior Court, charged with stealing a car from O. P. Langworthy.

"Judge," he said, with all the earnestness of a country youth, "I didn't steal that car. I got into it as the car owner would sit in it a car once. The owner wasn't there."

"Somehow the thing got started," continued Pearson, "and to save my life I couldn't stop it. I jiggled everything I could see and put my foot on everything down in the bottom, but the blamed thing went faster all the time. I had all I could do to keep it in the road."

"How did you manage to get it stopped?" asked Judge Breckenridge.

"The gas ran out," said the youth, "on a hill."

"Learn to stop 'em," said the judge. "Fifty dollars and sixty days, and that's giving you the benefit of the doubt."

SCENE FROM "THE LITTLE GIRL NEXT DOOR," AT THE BROADWAY THEATRE.

'Little Girl Next Door' Shows Life's Tragedies on Broadway Screen

Critics, exhibitors and patrons of the dangers that lurk in city streets and in a girl's desire for adventure and thrills. "The Little Girl Next Door" one of the most interesting and convincing underworld pictures ever shown.

It is an expose of vice, based upon facts gathered by the Illinois Vice Commission during the recent investigation, and pictures the life of each girl just as she told her story to the commission. The picture is a story of women that lived a life of shame, but it fulfills its task in driving home the lessons of the

SEBASTIAN SUES EDITOR FOR LIBEL

Dana Sleeth Made Defendant in Action Based on L. A. Record Story.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 1.—Mayor Charles E. Sebastian swore to a complaint late yesterday charging Dana Sleeth, managing editor of the Los Angeles Record, with criminal libel. A second defendant is named in the complaint under the title of John Doe.

The complaint is based on the publication Wednesday in the newspaper of an alleged defamatory article under the caption "Pratt Notes Staged Sebastian's Trial" and reproductions of three alleged notes, two of which were addressed to "Dear Lil" and the other to "Lil." In two of the reproductions the signatures to the alleged notes were shown as "C. E. S." and in the third it was shown as "C. E. Sebastian."

The dates shown on the reproductions of the alleged notes were prior to the time Mayor Sebastian and Mrs. Lillian Pratt left Los Angeles to attend to the Los Angeles county grand jury on charges of contributing to the dependency of Edith Serkin, a minor. They were acquitted later in the Superior Court after a trial which lasted almost a month.

The indictments were returned April 6, 1915, when Sebastian was chief of police, and at which time he was a candidate for the mayoralty nomination. The trial began April 19 of the same year and Sebastian was nominated before it was closed. He and Mrs. Pratt were acquitted May 14, 1915, and Sebastian was elected mayor in the following June.

Sleeth appeared before Police Judge George S. Richardson today and pleaded not guilty to the charge. His trial by a jury was set for October 18.

Sausalito Pirates Raid Salmon Boats

SAN RAFAEL, Sept. 1.—Although Cosma Candros and Michael Trespedas of Vallejo carried no black flags with skull and crossbones on the jackstaves of their power launches, they committed piracy near the Marin islands yesterday afternoon, according to the story told by Gus Caporaso, Tony Pear and Massee Luelido and Joe Domague of Sausalito.

The quartet of fishermen declare that they were peacefully selling for salmon with nets, when the two power boats, manned by four men each, charged them on two sides and ordered them to give up their catch at the points of rifles. While some of the bandits kept the fishermen covered with the guns, they said, others boarded the boat and seized 600 pounds of salmon and 250 pounds of sturgeon. A rifle belonging to Peters was stolen, he says, and he was beaten on the head with the butt end of it because he objected.

The Sausalito fishermen upon their return to port swore out grand larceny warrant against Candros and Trespedas and Sheriff J. J. Keating has gone after the alleged pirates.

State Parole Officer Divorce Defendant

Edward H. Whyte, parole officer for the State Board of Prison Directors, has been made defendant in a suit for divorce filed by Mrs. Florentine Whyte. The couple were married in Oakland in 1907 and lived at 212 Twenty-first street. Joseph P. O'Neill, a Berkeley butcher, was in the habit of looking into his wife's eyes and telling her that she "couldn't put anything over on him," according to the complaint of Mamie O'Neill, who charges him with cruelty. Rosa Hutchinson wants a divorce from John A. Hutchinson, a Butte county miner, whom she charges with desertion.

HOW TO BE SLIM

If you are too fat and want to reduce your weight 15 or 20 pounds, don't starve and weaken your system, or think you must always be laughed at on account of your fat. But go to Dr. J. W. Platts at Kahn's, Broadway, San Pablo and Sixteenth street, or any good druggist, and get a box of Dr. J. W. Platts' capsules, take one after each meal and one before retiring at night.

Weigh yourself once a week and note what a pleasant and reliable method this is for removing superfluous fat from any part of the body.

It costs little, is absolutely harmless and a week's trial should convince anyone that it is unnecessary to be burdened with even a single pound of unsightly fat.

COUNTY METALS FOR WAR SUPPLIES?

Government Geological Survey Wants Report on Hill Deposits.

SAN LEANDRO, Sept. 1.—Whether in the event of war Alameda county and other counties along the Pacific coast could be depended upon to supply large quantities of minerals and metals necessary for the manufacture of munitions and other equipment is the subject of investigation by the United States geological survey, according to Dr. B. F. Mason, mineralogist, of this city.

According to Dr. Mason he has been asked by the government geologists at Washington to assist in furnishing them with information regarding the mineral and metal resources of this part of the country. Particular attention, the local mineralogist says, will be paid to those minerals and metals which would be useful in the event of war.

"The Pacific coast is very rich in such minerals and metals as the government would require for the manufacture of munitions and other war material," said Dr. Mason. "The quantities of tungsten and other valuable metals and minerals are to be found and mining for these materials could be greatly developed." Dr. Mason pointed out how the European war had stimulated the mining of magnesite in the east end of Alameda county.

LABOR NOTES

Protest against the proposed drafting of railroad men to run the army duty, in case of a strike has been wired to Senator James D. Phelan by the Central Labor Council.

The Central Labor Council is completing arrangements for the union day picnic to be held by the unions of this side of the bay at Idora Park. A program of games and races and a number of aquatic events have been arranged as special features of the day.

THE BLUEBIRD BUREAU Department of Good Fellows

Sometimes it is rather hard to help people, but it seems that it should be easy enough to help them help themselves. We received a letter this morning from a woman who could easily help herself and would willingly do so if she were given the opportunity. The letter read:

"Dear Mr. and Mrs. Goodfellow—I won't obtain work for I have tried until I am almost discouraged. Respectfully yours, 'H. B. W.'"

The Bureau needs $7.20 and needs it rather quickly, for Doris, age 7, must have a brace right away, the doctor says, if she is to be kept from being crippled permanently. Doris is only one of five little sisters and she's lucky to have shoes and stockings, let alone a steel brace.

She was injured some time ago and the leg is not healing properly. A Blue Bird doctor is giving her treatment free, but we don't think it right that he should also have to pay for a brace himself. That's one of the provinces of the big Society of Good Fellows, and so we trust that some of you will see to it that we get the required sum, even if it comes in several small contributions.

The brace costs considerably more than the sum mentioned here, but we have learned where one can be secured that is not exactly new, but will answer the purpose.

A little home for boys on our list lacks athletic paraphernalia of any kind. Football season is approaching, and we would like to see that these lads get something that at least resembles a football. At present they are playing with a gunny-bag filled with excelsior and the stuffing comes out after every play, necessitating a call for "time."

"I have a friend who would keep my children all afternoon if I could secure work that takes me away from home, but I would prefer something to do at home for baby is scarcely four years old and I feel that he is too little to have others control him."

"I also write quite a few verses and have been trying to find a sale for them for postal cards, but do not know of any firms printing cards."

"I do hope you will be able to help me."

CARR THANKS VOTERS.

Permit me to express through the columns of your paper my grateful appreciation to the people of Oakland in the Thirteenth Senatorial district for the splendid vote of endorsement given me in the primary election on August 28. As the Republican candidate for state Senator from this district I stand for clean and honest government and will do all in my power to justify the confidence and support of the people.

RIOTING FOLLOWS HOSPITAL STRIKE

Reserves Called Out in Manila to Quell Disturbance.

MANILA, Sept. 1.—American reserves were called out today to quell a small riot growing out of a strike of the nurses and students of the general hospital. The strike began yesterday as a protest against the discipline imposed upon the hospital employees and was fomented by a native newspaper campaign. The hospital service was badly crippled. Today the strikers gained recruits and created disturbances which the Filipino police were unable to suppress.

Private nurses are volunteering to care for the hundreds of patients in the hospital.

Last Burright Firebug Gets San Quentin Term

M. J. Snyder, the last of the Burright arson gang who committed depredations throughout the State during the last two years, was sentenced to San Quentin by Superior Judge Ogden today for a term of two years. The Court denied the defendant probation. Snyder was charged with firing a house in North Oakland and collecting the insurance on furniture which had been placed there by himself.

Inspector William Kyle of the Oakland department apprehended Snyder last July in an Oregon lumber camp and brought him back for trial. He pleaded guilty. Charles Burright, the purported leader of the arson gang, was convicted of firing a house in East Oakland a year ago and is now serving a five-year term in San Quentin.

George W. Towne, another member of the gang, was sentenced to two years in San Quentin last May. Mrs. Jennie Burright was placed on probation.

CRIME OF YOUTH LEADS TO SCAFFOLD

Young Russian Harig for Murder of Officer in Marysville Shooting.

FOLSOM PRISON, Sept. 1.—Kosta Kromphold, 21-year-old Russian, went to his death on the Folsom prison scaffold at 10:35 today, paying the penalty for the murder of John Sperbeck, an officer in Marysville, when Sperbeck attempted to arrest him for robbery. The murder occurred a year ago.

Kromphold went to his death without a tremor. He told Warden Smith Thursday night he would have no statement to make before his death and he held to his plan.

In a cell leading to the scaffold Kromphold joined in prayer with Father Cahill of Placerville. His last request to the priest was: "Write to my mother; I haven't the heart to do it." Kromphold's mother lives in Long Island, N. Y. She had been writing him continuously since his imprisonment.

Kromphold was pronounced dead fourteen minutes and thirty-five seconds after the trip was sprung.

Last night he had a phonograph played in his cell. One of his selections he called for was: "If I Had a Thousand Lives to Live."

Forest Service Lines Prove Efficiency

PORTLAND, Sept. 1.—The efficiency of the forest service telephone line to the summit of Mount Hood was demonstrated last week when W. D. Scott, division equipment engineer of the Pacific Telephone and Telephone Company visited the Mount Hood lookout station and conversed with S. H. Hess, transmission engineer at San Francisco, a distance of miles horizontally and nearly two miles vertically. News of the success of the experiment was brought here today by Scott.

The results of the test were so satisfactory that plans are making for a test telephone conversation between the lookout on Mount Hood and the forester at Washington, D. C.

LETTER IN SHARK CLEW TO SUICIDE

Modern Styles and Threat to Stop Money Are Discussed in Message.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Did you ever hear of a shark committing suicide? No. Well, read this yarn. It comes from a near-by resort. Two shark-hunters were surprised to see a shark flopping about on the beach and trying to bury its nose in the sand. The hunters killed the shark, and when it was dissected the investigators found that Mr. Shark had swallowed a woman's pocketbook. Among other things in the purse was the following letter:

"Dear Mary—If you expect any more financial aid from me you have to cut out the style of dress you have recently adopted. I will not have my money spent in buying fancy doll clothes for you to display at dancing parties. If you want to know just why I object to the present-day clothes which women are wearing, sit down on a corner bench some time and listen to what you will hear from men who make sport of those get-ups that you call style." It was signed "Your Father."

The shark-hunters are quite sure it was the sharp criticism in the letter that caused the shark to try to commit suicide.

Rita May Burns obtained a similar decree from William A. Burns for desertion and James A. Burns was awarded an interlocutory decree from Clara Belle Burns for cruelty.

Cocoon Oil Fine for Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulled coconut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulled coconut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.—Advertisement.

ADVISE FRESHIES TO ESCHEW BOOZE

If Frat Gets You Drunk, Quit House in Morning, Says Dr. Wilbur.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Sept. 1.—If you join a fraternity and they make you drunk the first night, quit them the next morning," was the advice of President Ray Lyman Wilbur to freshmen at the annual welcoming assembly. "Don't let a pledge blind you."

President Wilbur in his annual address to freshmen and others had many things to say that made some members of the student body squirm. He said:

We have removed the observatory from Lavinia Hill so that it will be difficult to keep poker parties going. There may be other haunts that we may have to give our attention to.

If you cut classes, or if you dodge examinations, or if you get that much less from the university.

If a man has a big bank account let him keep quiet about it. We do not care for any display. We do not want parlor arguments here. We want men who may be in the future, but we do not desire the others.

Dr. Charles Gardner, chaplain; Miss Harriet Bradford of San Francisco, the new Dean of Women, and Paul Stanford of Fresno, new student adviser, were the other speakers today.

Youth Said to Admit Killing His Parents

PALATKA, Fla., Sept. 1.—John Muller, a youth arrested here last night accused of killing his father and mother, is said by the police to have admitted his guilt and asserted that he "had to do it to get the war tax."

Muller would not explain what he meant by "getting the war tax," the police said. The Muller family came here from Germany several years ago.

Louie is suspected by Riddle of the murder of Ah Gow near Honcut recently.

TAXIDERMIST MAY BE NEW CURATOR

Library Board Suggests John
Rowley to Succeed
Harshe.

John Rowley, a taxidermist of wide experience and artistic ability, has been recommended by the Board of Library Trustees to the Civil Service Commission for appointment to the position of curator of the Oakland Public Museum. Should the choice be ratified by the commission Rowley will assume his duties immediately upon appointment.

Rowley won international distinction last year by his work in mounting the animal exhibits in the various buildings of the Panama-Pacific Exposition. He was awarded a gold medal for the excellence of his settings and the perfect methods of preserving the natural appearance of the specimens. A feature of all Rowley's work is the verisimilitude of the backgrounds and the attitudes of the animals.

The position of curator has been vacant for two months. It was formerly held by Robert B. Harshe, who resigned in order to take a more important appointment with the Carnegie Institute in Pittsburgh.

Submarine Chaser Is Also Pleasure Craft

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 1.—The submarine chaser Nevada II, owned by James H. R. Cromwell, was launched from the yards of the Esington Shipbuilding Company today in the presence of officers of the navy and prominent men and women of society. The vessel was built to serve the double purpose of a pleasure craft and a foe of submarines in time of war. As a pleasure yacht she is elaborately appointed, being equipped with all modern improvements. As a war vessel she is equipped with wireless apparatus, one six-pound gun, one one-pound gun and a machine gun. She is sixty feet long.

Strike Threatened by Waterfront Toilers

Waterfront repair men and launch builders are watching with concern the negotiations between members of the Ship Carpenters' and Caulkers' Union and owners of various launch works on both sides of the bay. A strike is threatened unless the launch works allow the same wage for repair work as for new work. The present schedule calls for $4 a day for repair and $5 a day for new work. The launch men hold that the wage should be the same for both classes of work.

Five unions affiliated with the Pacific Coast Maritime Builders and the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, threatened to strike unless the new schedule is not allowed by Monday. It would affect 600 men, mostly on the other side of the bay, and would tie up small boat building.

A meeting will be held Sunday afternoon.

Rate Case Victory Subject of Meeting

Members of the traffic committee of the Chamber of Commerce will meet tonight to discuss the victory of local shippers and merchants in the postponement by the Interstate Commerce Commission of the rate changes that had been ordered affecting coast shipping.

The Oakland Chamber of Commerce took a lead in the protests against the rates and the move for a postponement. The new rate order would have cost Oakland dealers and shippers thousands of dollars, according to the committee members.

INDIAN SETS UP 10 COMMANDMENTS

Cherokee Men Says Paleface Women Should Follow Example.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 1.—"You Eastern women can be as strong and happy as any Indian woman, even if you are as unfortunate as to live in a steam-heated apartment instead of a wigwam, if you abide by my advice," says Miss Kathryn Fife, an Indian maiden who has just arrived here from Tahlequah, Okla.

That is more, this daughter of the red man says that by living up to these ten rules the daughter of the paleface can control the heart of man.

"The fact is," says Kammah, "the squaw knows how to live. With her bristly, healthy, I should worry, manner, no wonder she is a delight and a joy to even the most fastidious."

Miss Fife, who, by the way, is known among her Cherokee friends as Kammah, has studied the capabilities of her sisters for several years.

Kammah in no way lives up to the dignity, frail little creature for whom the wise old Indian squaw has named her for she is as sturdy as a mountain. Being the daughter of a leading surgeon and physician of Oklahoma and having for a mother one of the most successful authors in the Indian territory, Miss Kammah has been afforded many opportunities, of which she has made use.

She is a graduate of the Forest Park University, and is in Boston to study platform art at the Whitney studios that she may in the future be able to give little talks about her people to the misinformed white race.

She aims also to "make squaws out of white women," who, she asserts, spend fortunes merely keeping alive.

"To begin with the American woman talks too much and thinks too little. She has accomplished the monkeylike feat of chattering without using her mind."

"The Indian wife will go for hours without saying a word. She gives her tongue a rest and her mind a treat often."

"The white woman wastes energy trying to outdo her neighbor socially. Time and skill that the squaw devotes to developing her mind and body the white woman expends on posing and gilding for the benefit of her envious neighbors, who, by the way, really only care for her company when she has some scandal to peddle."

"Indian women mind their own business and then reason they never have gray hairs or wrinkles. A gray-haired Indian is considered a freak and a thing to be avoided. The fish were from an inch to an inch and a half in length. The snake and trout were preserved in alcohol by Reed and have been added to the collection of the state fish and game commission. When caught the snake was in the feeding pond catching fish, according to Reed.

beautiful back, which is strong and perfect because she takes it. She makes account for as you know, the Indian woman carries her baby on her back. If you don't happen to own a baby, fill a basket with wood or coal and strap it across your shoulders. Work about your home while you carry this load just as the squaw does. This posture improves, because the squaw, being fully capable of becoming a mother, has been accustomed to perfect health and plenty of good common sense.

WOULD SIT ON FLOOR.—"Discard your chair and sit on the floor. Take your after-lunch beauty nap on the floor. By doing both these your physical condition will improve rapidly. In addition to feeling more comfortable you will find yourself losing your little affected mannerisms. No woman could twitter and gush when sitting on the floor. The natural position kills even the forced smile."

"The corset should be thrown to one side together with the shoe. Indian women weighing 200 pounds take a No. 2 shoe, which shows the moccasins do not enlarge the feet. Shoes and corsets are not good for the disposition or the complexion."

Speaking of complexion, I must say that powder and paint sound the death knell of clear, healthy skin. The white woman should omit cosmetics and let her skin take a cold plunge every morning. If she lives near a river, so much the better.

Indian women have wonderful hair. Besides never turning gray, it never falls out or loses its gloss. They don't imprison it as the white woman does. Hairpins and rats break the hair and cause hair doctors to reap fortunes."

Pupils Save Nest of Lark; Eggs Hatched

CAMBRIDGE CITY, Ind., Sept. 1.—The campus of the Duzlin school was moved with the exception of a small plot about a yard square. This was not cut because a meadow lark had made its nest there.

The school pupils guarded the nest carefully lest harm should befall it when the yard was cleared for the Independence day celebration.

A few days ago the children were rewarded for their vigilance when the eggs hatched.

FISH KILLER IS CAUGHT

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 1.—An unusual catch was made by McKinley Reed, in charge of the Eagle Creek feeding pond of the fish and game commission near Barton, Oregon, recently, when he killed a common garden snake. The snake when opened was found to contain fifty-four small trout which it had caught in the pond there. The fish were from an inch to an inch and a half in length. The snake and trout were preserved in alcohol by Reed and have been added to the collection of the state fish and game commission.

When caught the snake was in the feeding pond catching fish, according to Reed.

INDIAN SOLVES PROBLEM OF DYES

Chief Worries Not About War, as He Manufactures Own Colors.

SEATTLE, Sept. 1.—Manufacturers all over the country are complaining of the shortage of dyes; clothing makers are threatening to dress us in garments as white as snow; the time is coming, say the ink manufacturers, when we must rely on the red fluid made famous by Captain Kidd and other pirate bands when we want to write a check, but Chem, better known as Steve, an Indian and a manufacturer of British Columbia, worries not.

He makes his own dyes and whether any more are ever imported from Germany, or whether American chemists solve the secrets, are alike matters of supreme indifference to him. So long as his kitchenman and his tons, or in English, his wife and daughter, retain their strength, he will pose as a manufacturer and turn out the same mat and basket goods, having the same bright colors as the utensils his forefathers used as berry containers and cooking vessels when the foot of the white man was foreign to these shores.

All the specimens of the handwork of the women—salves, dyes, in gray, colors, and all colors—are obtained by the Klutchem, according to the simple process known for thousands of years.

The black, and it is a black that will not fade, is obtained by covering the rushes, grasses or bark with the black mud of the swamps, which gives a lasting red equal to any imported dye; the red is obtained from the bark of the alder; pink from a weaker solution of the same bark and brown comes from the familiar bark of the hemlock and yellow is boiled out of the root of the Oregon grape.

When a heavy cloud appeared the other day the family rushed for the cellar. Mr. and Mrs. Moriarty leading, the fat daughter close behind. The parents entered the cellar just a second before the fat girl rolled down the steps.

The crash with which they entered caused Moriarty's wishers to flow over his shoulder, and Mrs. Moriarty's skirt to extend to the rear in such a way that when Mary's precipitate jump for the lower door wedged her in, both whistlers and skirts were caught securely between the girl and the door.

COULD GO NEITHER WAY.

For Mary vainly screamed and kicked, but she could neither go forward nor back. Moriarty faced the frantic girl, who pined him in her efforts to pull herself through. Mrs. Moriarty tried to unfasten her skirt, but could not manage it.

The rain fell for an hour and poured in a torrent down the steps, because the sufferers had not found time to close the upper door. It was not until the cellar was half full of water and the rain had ceased that Moriarty thought of his pocket knife.

He cut his whiskers loose and then extricated his wife. The two of them crept out one side of the door so that the rotund Mary could be free.

FAT GIRL SEWS UP PA AND MA

Former Loses Whiskers, Latter Part of Dress, Setting Mary Free.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Sept. 1.—When James Moriarty dug a cellar and fitted it with an entrance and a roof as a protection against the elements he failed to figure on the figure of his 14-year-old daughter, Mary, who weighs 311 pounds.

As a result he is shy part of his wonderful growth of whiskers. His wife demands a new skirt and neither Mrs. Moriarty nor the daughter has spoken to him since the big rain that came with a threatening wind early in the week.

The Moriartys moved from Lead Hill to the outskirts of Hot Springs just a few days before the big storm which did so much damage here in June. That storm frightened them so much that Moriarty immediately dug a new cellar.

THREE RUSH TO CELLAR.

He placed a door at the foot of the entrance steps and a pair of doors at the top. The top doors were built so that when closed from the inside they formed a continuation of the slope of the roof.

When a heavy cloud appeared the other day the family rushed for the cellar. Mr. and Mrs. Moriarty leading, the fat daughter close behind. The parents entered the cellar just a second before the fat girl rolled down the steps.

The crash with which they entered caused Moriarty's wishers to flow over his shoulder, and Mrs. Moriarty's skirt to extend to the rear in such a way that when Mary's precipitate jump for the lower door wedged her in, both whistlers and skirts were caught securely between the girl and the door.

'DADDY OF WOLVES' KILLED BY COWBOY

Famous "Big Lobo" Lassoed; Had Made Havoc Among Cattle.

AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 1.—The big lobo wolf of Jeff Davis county is dead. He was known in all the Big Bend country as the daddy of them all, and his singular feat had spread all along the Mexican border. His death occurred fifteen miles from Fort Davis. A cowboy named "Slack" was the instrument of his destruction and the reaper of the rewards.

His depredations for the past year have averaged four head of cattle a day. There was a standing reward in Jeff Davis county for every lobo killed. In the case of the big lobo this sum was to be $100. Two years ago the cattlemen announced they would pay $100 for his scalp.

The big lobo had his own methods of operating. He chose his animal on the ranges, leaped at it, cut its hamstring with his terrible teeth and ate what he wanted from the warm carcass.

S. A. Slack, the cowboy, was riding over the Kokernut ranch, looking for a "beef critter." About 1 o'clock in the morning he caught sight of the big lobo.

STORY OF CAPTURE.

"He was eating on a carcass when I first saw him," Slack told his story of the capture. "Lots of fat, his head run this way, but he could get away from me. He was so fat he would drop into one of the brakes and disappear."

"I thought I would give him a long draw, and I tried to keep between him and the broken country, to which he would run. I was so close to him that I tried to pass me I might get a good shot at him."

"Finally I saw that he was so full from his feast that he couldn't run away from my pony. I had run about two miles from the lobo, so I turned around and I got my rope loose and commenced throwing for him. I think I got him about the fifth throw. When I stopped my horse I felt as if I had roped a steer. My rope went around his neck and under his front legs, so that when I pulled him he had only three legs to run with. I tried to get him to stop, so that I could drag him, but I never could get him off his feet."

FINISH OF LOBO.

"Finally my pony was about to give out and I stopped. 'Big lobo just sat down and snarled. He was all in. I hit him with the noose, and he rolled up on one front foot, so he would stand, for tired as he was, he was scared to do that. Then I rolled the wolf over to where the horse was and I tried every way I could to get him on the horse, but I could not do it. So I killed him with my pocket knife and took the hide into camp."

Slack sent word to Kokernut as soon as I got there and the first thing he did was to send me a check for $100 by the same fellow that took the word to him."

Remembers Cache of Pipe Fifty Years

WINSTED, Conn., Sept. 1.—Half a century ago, when 65-year-old Horace Emmons of Northville, a village in this county, attended the little school house in Winchester, the scene this week of a reunion of teachers and pupils of other days, he, then a boy of 15, concealed a pipe in a cavity formed by two stones near a stone wall close to the school house. He hid it so that his teacher, Mrs. Nellie Miller, would not find it on his person.

Last Thursday Mr. Emmons visited the school for the first time in fifty years, and after climbing over the stone wall got down on his hands and knees and felt beneath the two stones. Old classmates asked Mr. Emmons what he was doing.

"Looking for my first pipe, which I hid here from the teacher," he replied.

"He didn't find it."

Chewed Cat's Tail; Jailed for Cruelty

WASHINGTON, Pa., Sept. 1.—Because a cat has but one tail in spite of its nine lives and also for the reason that this caudal adornment is a very sensitive portion of the feline's anatomy, James Hencher, of near Washington, is in the county jail. Technically, Hencher is charged with cruelty to animals. Actually, his offense was biting off the end of a cat's tail.

Recently some boys playing with a cat along the road in Canton township buried the spitting feline into Hencher's face as he passed on his way home. In his furious anger Hencher set his teeth on the cat's tail, which led to the road, leaving an inch of her appendage with him. The Humane Society had Hencher arrested and at a hearing he was fined $10 and cost. He was unable to produce the money and now languishes in a cell.

PEPPER ON ICE CREAM

VENICE, Sept. 1.—"That's pepper, sir," said the waiter as he placed a small shaker beside a heaping dish of ice cream at a local roof garden. The customer looked askance, trying to get the connection between the ice cream and the pepper. "Yes, sir," said the waiter, as if in reply, "it's the ice cream. Lots of people want to put pepper on their ice cream. You see, if a person's stomach is sensitive the cold hurts him, and the pepper stimulates enough to overcome the effect of the cold, and, funniest of all, you don't taste the pepper. If you don't believe it, try it."

The Newest in America First at the New York!

The-Serge Frock has taken the World of Fashion by storm. We do not recall any season which has equaled this year's loud clamor for smart Serge Dresses and Dresses of Satin.

Fully Prepared—Ready is the "New York" organization of seven Smart Shops.

The prettiest dress so far shown this season is a frock of loose pleated French serge in navy, hanging languidly—almost limply—from under caped shoulder to shoe top. The sleeves are of Georgette with cuffs made of serge. Straps permit the wearer to adjust the waistline best suited to the figure.

COURT SEEKS MILLIONAIRE ESTATE LOSS

Possession by Attorney for Aged Capitalist of Title to $2,000,000 Being Probed by Federal Judge Landis Today

Deathbed Confession of Wife of Junk Dealer That Girls Adopted by Morrison Were Daughters to Be Repeated

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—Inquiry into the lost millions of Edward W. Morrison, an aged millionaire, was resumed in the federal court today with the object of finding out how James R. Ward, attorney for Morrison, obtained title to property of the millionaire valued at $2,000,000.

Federal Judge Landis also sought an explanation of several checks issued to Ward, some of them written in his own handwriting, which called for amounts ranging from $35,000 and $50,000.

Joseph Burnstein, a junk dealer, probably will be recalled to be examined regarding the deathbed confession he made that his wife made that Morrison was the real father of two girls the millionaire recently adopted.

CALOMEL BAD FOR THE LIVER

Dose of Nasty Calomel Makes You Sick and You Lose a Day's Work.

Calomel salivates! It's mercury. Calomel acts like dynamite on a sluggish liver. When calomel comes into contact with your bile it crumbles into its caustic crumbing and makes you sick. If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your drugstore and get a 50 cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic. Which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

If you take calomel today you'll be sick and nauseated tomorrow; but if you take Dodson's Liver Tonic you will wake up feeling great, full of ambition and ready for work or play. It's harmless, pleasant and safe to give to children; they like it. Advertisment.

Plan Birth Control Clinics Margaret Sanger Is Leader

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—If the police don't stop her, Mrs. Margaret Sanger will open a clinic in Brooklyn to teach birth control to mothers.

Mrs. Sanger was indicted here a few months ago by Uncle Sam for "sending obscene matter through the mails" in her birth control magazine, "The Woman Rebel." But she and her New York society men and women friends caused so many scenes in the Federal Court and raised such a rumpus about it that the prosecution was dropped.

Mrs. Sanger also was arrested in Portland, Ore., a short time ago when she went there to preach birth control.

"Eastern women practice it, but won't advocate birth control publicly," said Mrs. Sanger today, "but Western women practice and publicly advocate it, too. Five hundred Los Angeles women let me use their names on my tongue."

She described the authorities' action

GUARD TO CAMP IN M'KINLEY PARK

Fifth California Infantry Is Expected in Sacramento Sunday.

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 1.—A new place of encampment, McKinley Park, in the northeastern section of the city, is being laid out today by the new National Guard engineering company and will be in splendid condition for receiving the Fifth California Infantry, which is due to arrive some time Sunday from the border.

The present strength of the Fifth is about 800 officers and men, many having been discharged from service. The regiment also has 150 horses and mules.

Colonel J. J. Borree, acting adjutant general, applied to the city officials for permission to use the park, after the State Agricultural Society had denied the use of the fair grounds because of the state fair starting Saturday.

Rate Postponement Before Committee

The Traffic Committee of the Chamber of Commerce met at noon today to hear reports on the postponement of the new terminal rates, and also on the plans for Oakland's claim to differential rates at future hearings of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Traffic experts and attorneys discussed the various phases of the matter.

Oakland's contentions in the hearings on differential rates and rate increase hearings will be that the rates have been raised several times since the Panama Canal was opened, and that the rate changes cannot be because of water competition. Oakland's experts will be placed in shape for presentation to the commission as soon as possible.

Crane Takes Steps to Stop Court Edict

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—Because he filed a "frivolous appeal" in the State Supreme Court, Arthur Crane, a local attorney, was recently fined $250. He refused to pay the amount, declaring that his constitutional rights had been infringed by the levying of the fine. The Supreme Court replied by filing a lien on Crane's property at 2314 Fifteenth street.

Crane has now begun suit in the United States District Court to enjoin County Clerk Harry F. Mulerey from entering the lien. The case will be heard by Judge Van Fleet on Monday.

The appeal was made in the case of

TEMPORARY RELIEF FOR SHIPPERS.

The delay ordered by the Interstate Commerce Commission in making effective the revised schedule of transcontinental freight rates is of lively interest to Pacific Coast shippers and consumers. The preferential rates for terminal points, established when the Panama Canal was opened to commerce, will continue in force until December 30. The commission had ordered that they be repealed today and a higher schedule of rates substituted. Even the four months' postponement will mean the saving of many millions of dollars in expenses which had not been anticipated when the commission surprised the business men of the Coast by announcing the proposed higher rates. The significance of the new schedule, which should be viewed as only postponed, may be gathered from the statement that the four months' delay will mean a saving of half a million dollars to one industrial plant on the east side of the bay.

Commercial organizations and business interests generally should between now and December earnestly press their plea that the present schedule be allowed to remain in force. This schedule was fixed by the Interstate Commerce Commission upon the plea of the railroads that it was necessary to permit the transcontinental lines to compete with the canal. The laws enacted by Congress amendatory to the interstate commerce act provide that when a rail rate is once lowered to meet water competition it shall not again be raised "unless it shall be shown that such proposed increase rests upon changed conditions other than the elimination of water competition."

At the hearing before the Interstate Commerce Commission of the request of the railroads to increase the existing rates it was not urged that canal competition was permanently eliminated; but officials of the railroads and the steamship companies operating through the canal made the astonishingly harmonious statements that canal rates would never again be lowered to the point established when the canal opened. They did not say that this was due to the fact that the cost of operating of ships had increased, but because they anticipated that the demand for ships in the European trade would continue for several years and make the trans-Atlantic trade so profitable as to reduce the supply of canal ships.

The pleas of the railroads and the action of the Interstate Commerce Commission were clearly in violation of the letter and spirit of the interstate commerce laws. Water competition has not been eliminated and the railroads have not shown that there is any other basis for their plea for permission to charge higher rates. In explaining the postponement of the high schedule the Interstate Commerce Commission has stated that putting it into effect at once would be calamitous to business on the Coast. This condition will not change in four months.

THE STATE FAIR.

The annual California State Fair has become a permanent institution of great value. The session which opens in Sacramento tomorrow will equal, if not surpass, any that have previously been held, for each year California is making new records in the productive industries.

For example, stock raising is receiving increasing attention and advancement is annually recorded in the breeding of horses, cattle, sheep and swine. Much remains yet to be done to bring the livestock industry to the desired stage of adequacy, but experts and land owners are making extraordinary progress, and the livestock department at the fair will be a feature of high educational value.

Much new also may be observed in the agricultural field. Rice, cotton and sugar cane are new California products of much promise and deserve to be more thoroughly studied. So long as the agriculturists of the State have not reached perfection the State fair is a valuable storehouse of information.

The advertising value of the fair also is general and every section of the State should cooperate toward making it successful. It is not correct to consider the fair a matter of exclusive interest to the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys. It belongs to the whole State, and especially to the northern half. Here's wishing it unprecedented success.

MUSCLE SHOALS AND NITRATE.

When Congress was discussing the item in the army bill concerning a $20,000,000 plant at Muscle Shoals to extract nitrate for the manufacture of gunpowder out of the atmosphere, the arguments for the location of the site were not presented in the frankest manner desirable. There was much of circumlocution and "diplomacy" about setting forth the peculiar merits of the Muscle Shoals atmosphere. Speakers were diffident, for some unaccountable reason, in pleading for this very pretty plum for a southern State; and the result was that the debates failed to convey the really charming nature and purposes of the project.

We have found elsewhere, however, a very able presentation of the claims of the South to the nitrate plant. In a letter to a New York paper Mr. A. M. Shook of Tracy City, Tennessee, reduces the halting and lame arguments of the Congressmen from Tennessee to logical arrangement. By this time, Mr. Shook's letter has been duly ordered, printed in the Congressional Record. Not because we can vouch for Mr. Shook's reliability, although we have full faith in that, but because he epitomizes the argument of the Southern members of Congress, Mr. Shook's letter is reproduced in part:

We boldly claim that Muscle Shoals is the logical location for such a plant. In the first place, the largest undeveloped inland water power in the United States is at Muscle Shoals. In the second place, the location of the government plant at that point will not only develop this great water power, thereby furnishing a large surplus of hydro-electric power that will be used in driving the machinery now running and that which may be hereafter added within a radius of 200 miles of this point, but it will at the same time remove the obstruction to navigation on the Tennessee River at Muscle Shoals, which today is the principal barrier from Knoxville, Tennessee, to the mouth of the river at Paducah, Kentucky.

In time of war, when the plant is running largely on the manufacture of war munitions, all of the materials that will enter into the necessary products are more accessible to the plant located at Muscle Shoals than at any other point in the United States.

The cotton for the manufacture of gunpowder is all around it. The coke-oxyen by-products that are essential in the manufacture of war munitions can be drawn from Birmingham, Alabama, where there is, perhaps, the largest development of retort coke ovens than at any other one point in this country. Copper, zinc, aluminum, and sulphuric acid can all be drawn from the upper tributaries of the Tennessee River in East Tennessee. The steel required can be drawn from Birmingham, Gadsden, and Chattanooga.

It will also have the benefit of water transportation, both for assembling materials and distributing products from the upper tributaries of the Tennessee River to the Gulf of Mexico.

The above claims for the location of this plant at Muscle Shoals are taken as viewed from a war standpoint. The claims as viewed from a peace standpoint are even greater.

It may be that the claims as viewed from a peace standpoint are greater, when viewed by the Tracy City citizen from a war standpoint. But it is unnecessary to consider them. The case in favor of Muscle Shoals is complete, because Muscle Shoals was the object of the nitrate plant legislation, as can be plainly seen. Later on the country will learn what particular Southern district the armor-plate factory and the ammunition plant were designed to benefit.

NOTES and COMMENT

The restaurant proprietors and the disaffected employees are still at outs, but the patron keeps on eating.

We may expect that everybody with a surplus of any commodity will shoot up the price in the event of a strike, whether it is affected or not.

Delicate sarcasm from the Goldfield Tribune: "General Pershing's army continues in fine fettle; 'fit for a fight or a frolic.' To its credit let it be said it went as far as politics permitted."

The San Luis Obispo Tribune notes the difference between then and now: "Formerly the farm hand had to be able to milk cows, but now that is not so important as ability to keep the automobile in repair."

Election news from the Oroville Register that seems to be absolutely exclusive: "Charles H. Brown, of Gridley, won the fight for the Republican nomination for the United States Senate by a decisive vote."

Reading is still ahead, according to the Searchlight: "A fraternity house in Berkeley was robbed during a thunder storm. Not quite so bad as the Redding house that was robbed a few years back during an earthquake."

Generosity, as it is manifest by the Santa Ana Blade: "Sarah Bernhardt said the other day that she is coming to America to see Charlie Chaplin. As far as we are personally concerned, she can take him back with her, and welcome."

Wheat is down again in price. Reason—imminence of railway strike, lessening the probability of wheat getting transported to distant markets. In which case more of it may get worked up into bread at home, easing off the prices there.

The vote of Alameda county was very light. A few more than half those entitled to vote exercised the elective franchise. The commentator on the result is busy with interrogation points as to why so many failed to express themselves.

The tolerant American is likely to read with some surprise of the proceeding at Rome in which the names of the German Emperor and the German Crown Prince were chiseled out of a memorial. We wouldn't do that—at least, not officially.

Personal mention from the Holtville Tribune: "Charlie Miller, the popular young soda dispenser at the Holtville pharmacy, is taking a few days' vacation in the country. He has announced his intention of hunting for a bigger grasshopper than the Dane leviathan."

The San Francisco restaurant man who tries to maintain a neutral status sometimes gets into the limelight through both sides. The waiters declare they have him, the restaurateurs' association deny this, the respective adherents are left in perplexity and the restaurateur sometimes gets hurt.

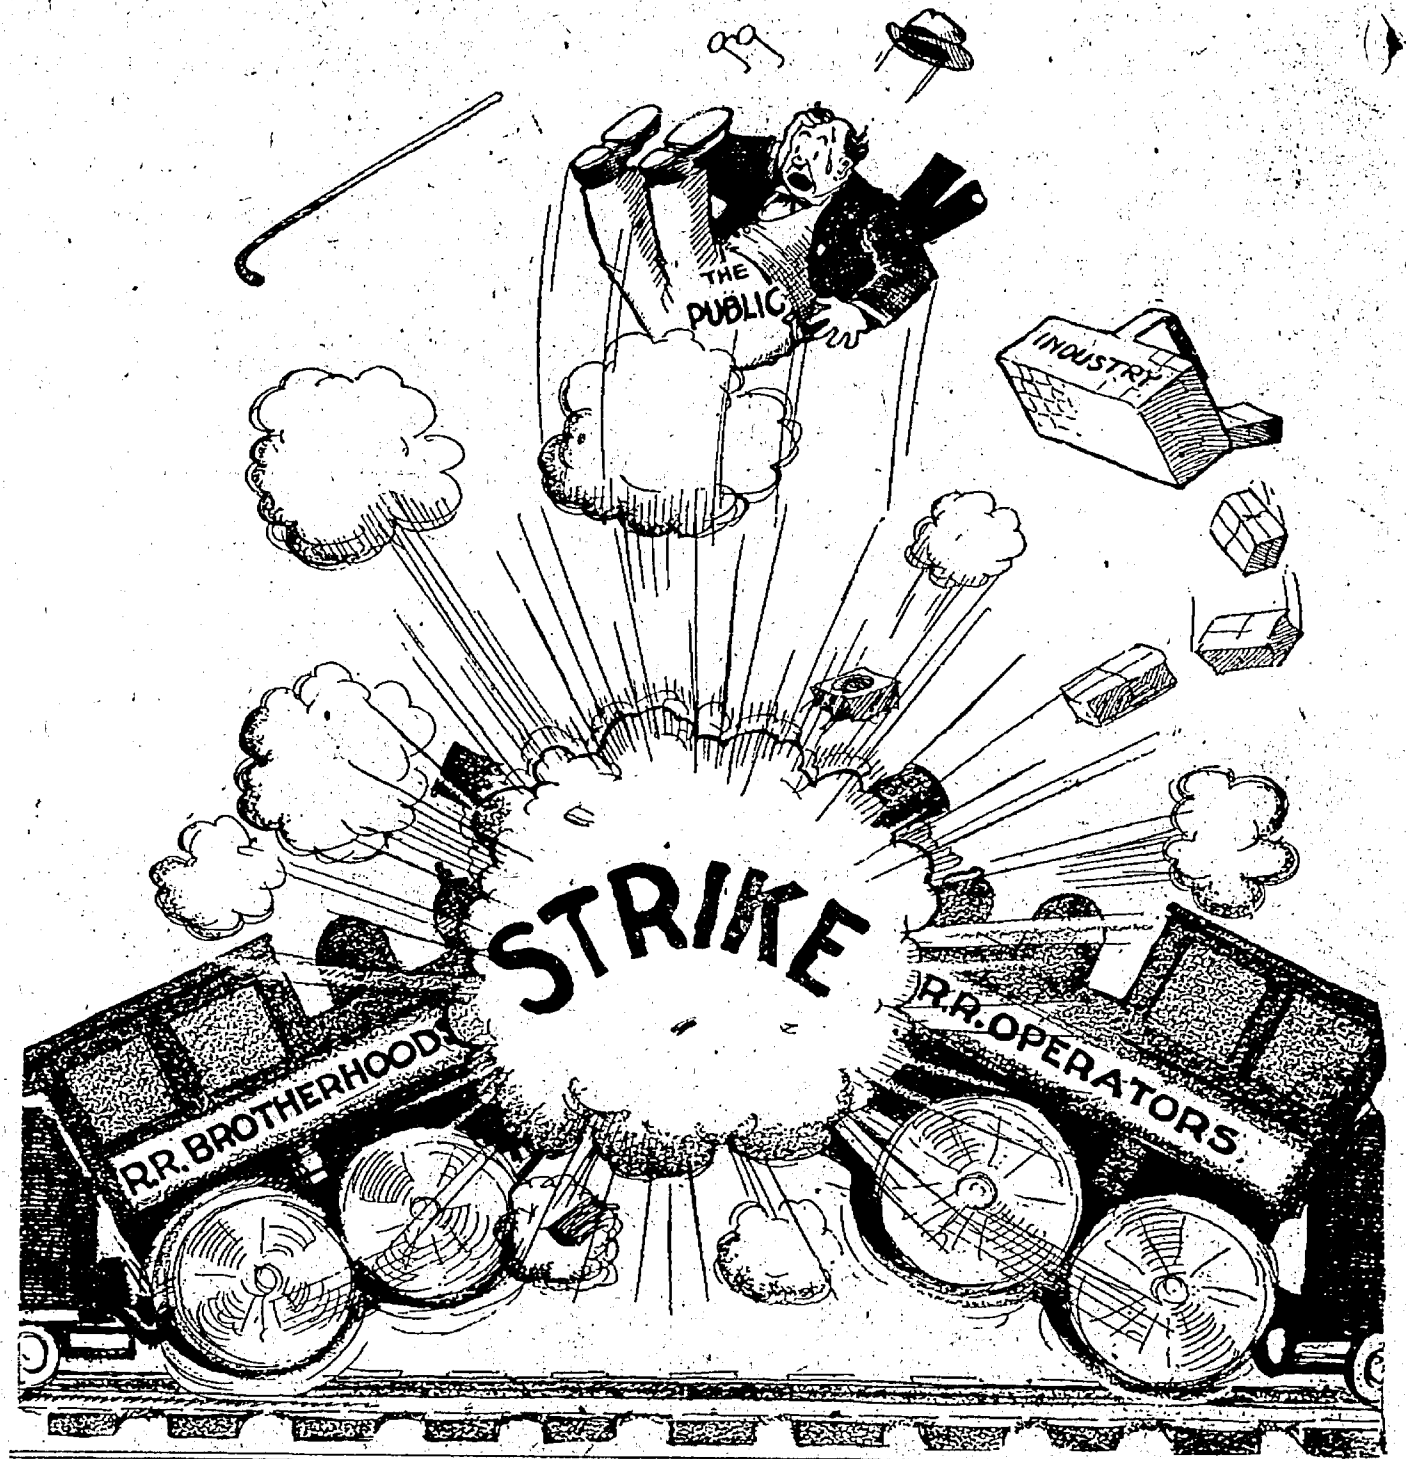

SPIRIT OF THE STATE PRESS

He reached a sharp turn when a deer leaped across the road under his horse's neck. The horse became frightened and upset the wagon, throwing Murray over the grade. He was taken to the San Rafael Cottage hospital where several severe cuts and bruises on his hands and ankle were dressed.—San Rafael Independent.

GEORGIA'S SINCERITY DOUBTED.

Georgia has only herself to blame if the rest of the country expresses doubts of the depth of her desire to put a stop to lynching. Her legislature has adjourned without passing the bill authorizing the governor to remove a sheriff for failure to perform his duty. The bill was accepted as a weapon against mob law, and was the center of animated discussion. The Judiciary Committee of the House reported it favorably. Newspapers of the standing of the Atlanta Constitution declared:

"The house owes the enactment of this measure to Georgia. No member of it can oppose this legislation without questioning the bravery of Georgia sheriffs and their purpose to obey the law when they go into office. No brave sheriff determined to carry out the law as he finds it can afford to offer opposition to it."

The last sentence is printed in full-face type, as if referring to an important obstacle in the way of the bill. But on the closing day of the session the House voted, 113 to 29, to lay it on the table. This was the more inexcusable as the bill had been amended to give an accused sheriff the right to carry his case to the Legislature as a court of final appeal. If it be said that this amendment took the teeth out of the bill, why should the Legislature have feared to pass it?—New York Evening Post.

CLAIM THAT BUILDING TRADES COUNCIL HAD NO KNOWLEDGE OF PLASTERERS' ACTION.

To the Editor of The Tribune:

In your issue of Sunday, August 27, on the page entitled "The Knave," under the sub-heading, "New Union Requirements," the following appears: "Building operations are to be under different rules now. The Plasterers' Union has given notice to architects and contractors that contracts for plastering must be entered into through the union. The old plan of dealing direct with the plastering contractor no longer goes. This was definitely ascertained when an architect sent out notices to plaster houses that he had some contracts to let, and inviting them to bid on the same. He received no responses and was considerably surprised, for it had always been that he did not have to invite bids for such work, but rather had to protect himself from the rush."

"Neither the Plasterers' Union nor any other union engaged in the building industry, and affiliated with the State Building Trades Council of California, has ever made, either orally or in writing, any such proposition, and, further, it never will make such a proposition."

We are perfectly willing to be held responsible for the conduct of the building industry insofar as the artisan, mechanic and laborer, affiliated with the State Building Trades Council, are concerned, but we are not willing to be held responsible for the ravings of some person or persons with whom we have nothing to do.

If any man or set of men stated that they represented the Plasterers' Union or its members, in giving expression to the thought hereinbefore set forth in this article, he or they were engaged in saying the thing that was not, and I am sure that you will agree with me when I say that statements such as that hereinbefore quoted and attributed to the Plasterers' Union, should not be allowed to go unchallenged. For that reason we will thank you very much if you will kindly give publicity to this statement, and oblige

P. H. MCCARTHY,
General President State Building Trades Council of California.

COMMENT ON THE RAILROAD STRIKE

FAILURE OF FEDERAL BOARD.

Springfield Republican: The utter failure of the federal board of mediation in the present crisis of the railroads condemns the board beyond argument as a futility so far as the biggest of labor troubles is concerned. Created by the Newlands act solely for railroad purposes, the board has performed excellent work in the lesser disputes and clashes between the companies and their employees, and, on that account, it cannot be dismissed as having no virtue and no field of usefulness. But manifestly a great deal remains to be done when such a board in a supreme clash of interests serves merely as an avenue of approach to the President of the United States, who is thereupon required to suspend his ordinary functions in order to act as a buffer between labor and capital. It is to be hoped sincerely that the hint in the president's message to Colonel George Pope of the future establishment of some form of compulsory investigation of such controversy on the Canadian model, if not compulsory arbitration itself, may be realized when the present emergency has passed.

QUESTIONS TO BE SETTLED.

New York Times: Questions of great interest and gravity remain to be determined in the subsequent inquiries which must follow adoption of the president's plan. One will be the need and the justice of decreasing the eight-hour day in the railroad business. The argument based on the supposed hardship of exacting more than eight hours of toll from railroad employees disappears. It has been made as plain as daylight that men are not agitating for eight hours of work and no more. Their real purpose is to secure higher pay. That in a great measure relieves the apprehension that the adoption of eight hours in railroad work would lead to a strenuous agitation for the universal rule of eight hours. When the president says in his telegram to Colonel Pope that "the whole economic movement of the time seems to point" to the adoption of the eight-hour day, he has, it seems to us, gone somewhat too far. The chief force in the present economic movement is the force of which all classes of society must take notice, is the increase in the cost of living. It was to be expected that the withdrawal from production of millions of men in Europe would have precisely that effect. But the withdrawal of workers is, in its result, the same thing as reducing the hours of those who still work. Higher cost of living must be the result. Similar effects are noted in hundreds of trades, where production cost is mounting.

WHO OWNS THE RAILROADS?

New York Tribune: There is to be detected in certain quarters in Washington an attitude toward the railroad managers and the railroad presidents that can only be explained on the theory that here stand a few score of selfish men hugging their personal welfare to their bosoms to the damnation of the great American people. Well, what are the real numbers of beneficiaries represented on both sides?

The number of trainmen is put at 400,000. Against these are rightly to be set not only a few hundred officers, but 623,000 stockholders, about as many bondholders, and, for good measure, the countless depositors in the savings banks of the nation, with an item running over $1,000,000,000 invested in railroad securities. With all allowance for duplications in the stock and bond lists, there are vastly more of the great American people, the actual owners of the American railroads, represented by the railroad managers and presidents than by the labor leaders.

Now, the stockholders and bondholders are not entitled to any undue leniency by reason of their numbers. But neither are the trainmen on the convenient theory that they outnumber the presidents. What is to be sought is justice—justice for the 400,000 trainmen and justice for the millions and more owners of the railroads, as well as for the whole American people.

ALL READY FOR TOUR TIOGA 1916 IS SLOGAN MANY CARS SIGNED UP

By EDMUND CRINNION.

Let's go! 1916 Tioga Tour. Tomorrow we're off in a cloud of smoke, 150 of us. On our way, past Emerald Bay. Will be back Tuesday. Office hours Wednesday as usual.

Today, all day, many private car owners entered in the world's famous trans-Sierra tour checked out of Oakland to await the main section of the caravan at the picturesque foothill town of Auburn.

Tomorrow morning at 5 o'clock sharp, from Fourteenth and Broadway, the main section of the big gasoline caravan will check out and beat it over the Tunnel road to Martinez. Here a special boat will be ready to carry us across the straits of Carquinez to Genoa. Then over the new Yolo causeway route to Sacramento and Auburn. At Auburn a special luncheon will be ready for us.

Then on our way again up the American canyon over the trail of the early-day emigrants. Past the historic placer mining sections of the days of '49. Then through the Emigrant Gap, then following the winding Yuba River canyon from Chico to the summit overlooking Lake Donner, known as the snowshed route; passing Truckee and up the Truckee River canyon to Lake Tahoe. Here at the Tahoe tavern we will have a special service—special rates and special entertainment.

Here we will stay until 1 p. m. the following day. Then the best part of the red-letter day of the tour starts. Over the wonderful new state road circling Lake Tahoe and past Emerald Bay and Cascade Lakes and old Mt. Tallac to the rugged grandeur of the Sierras in Alpine county. Then to Woodford and Gardnerville, Nevada—a total drive of but sixty-seven miles over a beautiful country where the state pine adds to the rugged grandeur of the Sierras granite peaks that tower thousands of feet above the multi-colored waters of the lakes.

Here in the attractive towns of Minden and Gardnerville—in the verdant Carson valley—we will spend the second night of the tour. Our accommodations are awaiting us and a special dance program is all arranged for the evening.

Early next morning we will start for Hurling, aide; White cars, W. Masters, aide; Oakland cars, Michigan and Westcott cars, Ray Kiel, aide.

ALL MAKES ACCEPTED. Division four forms on the south side of Eleventh street, right resting on Clay; R. M. Seelye, marshal. This division will be composed of miscellaneous cars.

The Tioga Pass—almost circling Mono Lake and climbing the wonderful Elly grade up the Levening Canyon to the Tioga summit—the world's most scenic automobile road. Right near the summit of the Tioga pass we will stop for the third night at Desmond's Lake Tenaya Lodge. Here we will officially disband to allow the members of the big TRIBUNE party to avail themselves of the choice of three return routes. Here the perfect score certificates will be awarded to the cars showing a 100 per cent mechanical condition. The results of this award will be watched with keen interest by the motor car buying public.

Due to the special rates granted it will be possible for entrants to hold hotel bills down below the $10 mark for the entire four-day trip.

All motor car owners are invited. Phone to The TRIBUNE for further particulars. No entry fees are charged—just enter your car and come along. CALIFORNIA LANDS OPENED TO ENTRY

Wilson Signs Proclamation in Accord With Lane and Houston.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Upon recommendation of Secretaries Lane and Houston, President Wilson has signed a proclamation opening 37,950 acres from the Angeles National Forest, California, of which 56,000 acres will be open to settlement in advance of entry under the homestead laws from October 25 until and including November 21, and thereafter under any public land law applicable.

The excluded lands consist of some scattered tracts and a strip from two to six miles wide and twenty-four miles long on the eastern border of the national forest in Southern California in Los Angeles, Riverside and San Bernardino counties. It is reported that some of the lands have agricultural value.

Advertising Bureau to Repeat Ad-Masque

Election of officers, plans for the Ad Masque and the Pacific Coast Advertising Men's convention next year, and other work for the coming season will be before the Advertising Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce tonight. The meeting will be held in the Commercial Club quarters.

The election will probably confirm the appointment of the officers named to assume temporary charge several weeks ago, including Chairman George W. Finch, who took office when W. W. Gibbins resigned.

The Ad Masque is planned as a repetition of the successful affair held last year in the auditorium under the Ad Club's auspices, and will be held this year to raise funds to entertain the Pacific Coast Ad Men's convention, which comes next year to Oakland.

More Ships Are Wanted Abroad

Norwegian Firms Seek Bottoms

That a new Norwegian firm, seeking a large number of tankers and freight steamers is preparing to build twenty-two vessels on the Pacific coast, several to be constructed in Oakland, was learned today, following the news of the sale of the steamer George V. Fenwick, formerly the property of the Hammond Lumber Company. The vessel, which made two trips under charter to the Robert Dollar Company, has engaged in trade between San Francisco and Vladivostok and is in the Orient at the present time. The vessel is registered at 2000 tons. The sale price is reported to be $500,000.

Conferences have been held this week between officers of local shipyards and representatives of the new Norwegian firm that has entered the ship market on the Pacific coast. The details of the firm's plans have not been made public, although shipbuilders admit having held conferences with representatives of the builders. Officers of the company visited the Moore & Scott and other works about the bay.

The details of the sale of the George V. Fenwick were only made public today. A. B. Hammond, head of the lumber company formerly owning the vessel, refused to discuss the sale, although admitting that there had been negotiations. The vessel was built at Newport News. The new owners, it is declared, will not take charge until the ship arrives here from the Orient.

U. S. Submarine L-6 Towed From Mud Bank

LONG BEACH, Sept. 1.—The United States submarine L-6, launched here yesterday, was towed from a mud bank in the harbor at high tide today nearly 24 hours after the vessel struck bottom a few moments after taking the water. Officials of the California Shipbuilding Company stated the submarine apparently was undamaged. The L-6 was towed to a nearby wharf by two tugs, where the under water boat will remain until her engines arrive from the East. The submarine will then be placed in drydock for final inspection.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—A radio gram from Admiral Pond today said that A. J. Anderson and W. Planck have died of injuries received when the steam pipe burst on the cruiser off Santo Domingo Sunday, and that three men of the gunboat Castine were drowned. The latter, caught out in a motor boat, were: J. F. Priest, R. E. Garnon and J. R. Seymour.

MRS. GEORGE W. PERCY IN COLONIAL COSTUME AT COLONIAL TEA GIVEN YESTERDAY AT THE HOME OF MRS. WILLIAM HILL. THE TEA, GIVEN FOR THE BENEFIT OF ST. PAUL'S PARISH HOUSE BUILDING FUND, WAS LARGELY ATTENDED BY SOCIETY.

Hearst Hall tomorrow afternoon will be the gathering place of many of the university set at the first of the "faculty" teas of the autumn—those informal affairs that are an interesting factor in the social life of Berkeley.

These teas—always very simple in detail—bring together the faculty wives on one Saturday a month during the college year—with the exception of December and January—and are always extremely pleasant events. Especially are the first of the afternoon of the semester, as on these occasions the newcomers are met. Tomorrow two brides will assist in receiving—Mrs. A. J. Eddy and Mrs. Thomas Milton Putnam (Madeline Stone), who is being greeted by East Bay society since her arrival a month ago. Mrs. Putnam's wedding to Dr. Putnam, dean of the lower division of the University of California, took place this summer in Boston. Mrs. C. Derleth Jr., is the presiding hostess, together with Mrs. Percy Crawford. Others who will receive with them are: Mrs. William Colby, Mrs. C. C. Plett, Mrs. E. Lewis, Mrs. Perham N. C. Plett, Mrs. E. Lewis, Mrs. Charles Gilman Hyde, Mrs. E. J. Lee, Mrs. Ralph S. Minor, Mrs. I. M. Linforth, Mrs. C. T. Wiscott and Mrs. W. F. Langelier. These teas are from our to give and an academic simplicity always characterizes these events, no decorations, for instance, are indulged in. The emphasis is rather on genuine conversation. At the October faculty tea Mrs. Percy Crawford will be the hostess.

One of the large functions of interest this week to the younger matrons and girls of East Bay society was the elaborate tea given yesterday in San Francisco by Mrs. Henry Hiller in honor of Miss Ruth Tisdale, whose wedding to John Parkour will be an event of October in Alameda. Mrs. Hiller's guests included some two hundred—many guests crossing from this side of the bay, and she was assisted in receiving by Mrs. C. L. Tisdale and Mrs. Robert Swayne.

Among those who called during the afternoon were: Mrs. Harry Welch, Mrs. Arthur Durney, Mrs. Allen Field, Mrs. Chester Jamison, Mrs. William Bacon, Mrs. Robert Yalson, Mrs. J. C. Hall, Mrs. E. R. Weinmann, Mrs. Philip Teller, Mrs. Henry Guerin, Mrs. Channing Hall, Mrs. Chas. Hall, Mrs. Joseph Cowley, Mrs. Leroy Briggs, Miss Clara Frank, Miss Edith White, Miss Marguerite Durney and many others. This week and Mrs. Chester Jamison will entertain a house party of fifteen of the Alameda young set at their country place in honor of Miss Tisdale and her fiancé; another event planned in their honor is a dinner dance for next Wednesday evening when Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Durney and Mrs. Durney's sister, Miss Edith White will be the hosts. This festivity will be enjoyed by forty guests. During the second week in September Mrs. Harry Welch will give a bridge party as a compliment to Miss Tisdale, but the date has not yet been set.

Mrs. Frederick Magee presided at a smart luncheon today in honor of Mrs. Arthur Brown, the bride of the architect who designed the new city hall. Until her brilliant wedding a few months ago Mrs. Brown was Miss Jessamine Garrett of Oakland.

Social activities at Mare Island are rather minus "high" spots just at present, much of the disappointment being due to the fact that the shipyard is not coming back at a time for necessary repairs. There is, however, the usual amount of visiting between the bay and there.

After entertaining Miss Dorothy Bennett, one of the brides of the week, last week-end in Berkeley, Miss Orytha Gatch is spending the week at the house guest of the Naval Construction and Mrs. Lauman. Berkeley has lost a number of popular members of the prominent women of the city, as Mrs. J. H. Clausen, whose marriage to Professor Roy E. Clausen took place a month ago, and Miss W. Falls, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Falls of the city. Professor Clausen is connected with the department of genetics at the university—the same department in which Professor Babcock is enrolled. The dozen guests at the luncheon included several of the prominent women of Berkeley, including Mrs. Thomas Hunt, Mrs. Ralph E. Smith, Mrs. W. G. Gregg, Mrs. Arnold Stuenkel and a number of others.

Planning to stay a week or ten days, Mrs. William Thorne and Mrs. Joseph Korbrough left today for Lake Tahoe.

The coming of a little son has caused rejoicing at the home of Mrs. James McCandless (Marion Rodolph), whose husband was so tragically killed last April in a stockton automobile accident. The baby has been named after his father. Mrs. McCandless is one of the most beautiful young matrons of the East Bay society, and her wedding a year and a half ago was a most brilliant event. Mrs. McCandless is the daughter of the Honolulu family, but after the marriage he had started upon a business career in Oakland.

News has arrived from Juneau, Alaska, of the coming of a small son to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stantfield (Sarah Shields), and messages of congratulation from many friends are now on their way north to them. Mrs. Stantfield is a stepdaughter of Mrs. Elsie Bennett Shields, sister of Mrs. Tom Williams, and a niece of Dr. William Lyman Shields of San Francisco.

Mrs. Ira W. Van Slyke left Wednesday to visit her sister in Minneapolis. Later she will be joined by Mr. Van Slyke and together they will visit their daughter, Mrs. Ben R. Bell, and her family, in Detroit. They expect to return about the first of November.

Mr. and Mrs. DeForest W. Saxe will be hosts at a dinner dance at the Claremont Country Club during the early part of this month, entertaining two score or more guests.

Mrs. Daniel Easterbrook has returned from Shasta Springs where she spent the greater part of the summer, and will preside next Thursday evening at an inaugural dinner of the senior class at the club. Several hundred have planned to attend the opening function at the club-house and the new addition of $20,000, composed of Judge Everett Brown, Timothy C. Coogan, Harry G. Miller, Edw. H. Bradley, H. Bradley, and several others—has evolved an entirely new idea—not yet divulged for the entertainment of the gathering. It is expected to be a very jolly affair. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Marion Walsh are also among the recently arrived "contingent" from the country. Their summer place, "Tree Tops," at Tahoe, has been closed and they are now at home to their friends in their Linda Vista place, where during their absence, the grounds have been laid out along a new plan. Their house, too, underwent remodeling.

A trio of brides shared honors Tuesday at a luncheon given by Mrs. Ernest Brown Babcock, wife of Professor E. B. Babcock of the University of California, at her home in La Loma avenue: Mrs. Roy E. Clausen, Mrs. Homer Dilky and Mrs. J. H. Falls. Mrs. Clausen, whose marriage to Professor Roy E. Clausen took place a month ago, and Miss W. Falls, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Falls of the city. Professor Clausen is connected with the department of genetics at the university—the same department in which Professor Babcock is enrolled.

The dozen guests at the luncheon included several of the prominent women of Berkeley, including Mrs. Thomas Hunt, Mrs. Ralph E. Smith, Mrs. W. G. Gregg, Mrs. Arnold Stuenkel and a number of others.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Chesley Zeigelfuss (Marguerite Beckett) are spending a fortnight in Southern California where they are dividing their time between Los Angeles and San Diego. They will return within a few days.

After a two-months' tour of the south, Mrs. Charles W. Camm, with her little daughter, Miss Carolyn Camm, has returned to her home in town. During their stay in Pasadena they were house guests at the home of Mrs. Camm's mother, Mrs. Virginia Goodsell, and later Mrs. J. H. Falls of the city. CONFESSIONS OF ROXANE

By FRANCES WALTER.

(Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)
Mariam and Miss Thompson accompanied me to my train, and both clung to me until the very last. Miss Thompson besought me to be careful of my health, while Mariam repeated over and over that she was heartbroken because I was leaving her just when she expected I was leaving her again for an indefinite period. Miss Thompson knew enough of my affairs or had guessed enough to understand the circumstances under which I was leaving her.

But Mariam was plainly mystified. She asked once or twice where Arthur was, and when I told her that he was in New York, she was only partly satisfied. She sensed something wrong, but she was too much of a realist to understand just where the trouble lay. At one time she placed her hand on my arm, and looking up tenderly into my eyes, said: "Roxane, you are sad, and you need not try to hide it from me. Just as you don't have to tell me unless you want to, but I feel that something has happened to you, and that I can do to help you, there anything?"

My heart beat warmly in appreciation of this whole-hearted sympathy and offer of help, but I did not wish to cloud little Mariam's young life with my troubles. I had learned at an early age that children learn the marital unhappiness of others in their own home, where they learn that fathers are at daggers drawn half the time, and that mothers are on the other side takes the family troubles to the divorce courts. Sometimes they learn from the accounts of the domestic quarrels of the unfortunately married couples.

I am firmly convinced that the publication of this whole-hearted sympathy and offer of help, but I did not wish to cloud little Mariam's young life with my troubles. I had learned at an early age that children learn the marital unhappiness of others in their own home, where they learn that fathers are at daggers drawn half the time, and that mothers are on the other side takes the family troubles to the divorce courts. Sometimes they learn from the accounts of the domestic quarrels of the unfortunately married couples.

With such a statute in effect I believe that the number of divorces sought would be greatly reduced. I am not foolish enough to think that if the private affairs of the family were made no longer made matters of public scandal, more married couples will not be ready to make peace with their own private affairs and day out that it is a simple matter to cast off the solemn obligations which they assumed when they became man and wife.

Many a woman would be happy in the love of her husband today had she not the mind that the newspapers have easy to obtain. Many a woman would be happy in the love of her husband today had she not the mind that the newspapers have easy to obtain. Many a woman would be happy in the love of her husband today had she not the mind that the newspapers have easy to obtain.

Vice is a monster of so frightful intent as to be hated needs but to be seen. Yet seen too oft, familiar with her face, we first endure, then pity, then embrace.

I have actually known women who were proud of the fact that they had divorced their husbands. They seemed to think that it lent a quality of aristocracy to them and placed them in the same class with Mrs. Schenck, a well-known society woman, or Madame X—, the distinguished artist.

So I did not intend to tell Mariam anything about my trouble with Arthur. She would step into married life before long, and it would be time enough then for her to learn what it meant in the way of patience and gentleness, or jealousy and heartache, or sweetness and happiness, of sorrow and misery.

"I've even thought of visiting me a little later, if you come," I told her. "I will write you," I told her. "And I will take the first train after I receive the letter."

"Uncle John will want to come with me," I told her. "But perhaps Uncle John will not be invited."

"I will break his heart," I told her. "The clanging of a bell interrupted our conversation, and Mariam and Miss Thompson rose hurriedly. I glanced out of the window as the train started, and I saw Mariam dabbling her eyes with her handkerchief. Miss Thompson had her arm about her waist and apparently was trying to console her. It

Women in the News

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—A romance that had its beginning in Reno and culminated in the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Myers, beautiful San Francisco girl, and K. A. Stone, director for a Los Angeles moving picture company, became known when the newlyweds arrived in San Francisco and registered at the Palace Hotel.

Mrs. Stone, who is the daughter of Mrs. George Myers, 423 Castro street, was visiting friends in Reno and at a function in the gay divorce colony met Stone, who was there seeking a divorce from his wife, then in Los Angeles.

While waiting for his final decree Stone made ardent love to the fascinating Miss Myers, and within a few days their engagement was announced, much to the chagrin of a number of suitors for the San Francisco girl's hand.

Following a short visit in San Francisco Mr. and Mrs. Stone will motor to Los Angeles, where they will make their home.

HUSBAND ARRESTED ON WIFE'S COMPLAINT.
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—For a second time since his marriage, Joseph White, a solicitor, yesterday found himself in the city prison on a felony charge.

Mrs. White originally caused the arrest of her husband on a charge of grand larceny, alleging that five days after their marriage he secured $485 of her savings and deserted her. Yesterday the charge was changed to embezzlement, and White was again taken into custody.

According to Mrs. White, her husband represented that he wanted the money as part payment on a home.

O'SHEA WIDOW IS GIVEN FAMILY HOME.
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—A settlement of all family differences over the distribution of the estate of the late Jeremiah O'Shea, a former teaming contractor for the city, was announced by Superior Judge Graham after a conference with attorneys for Frank, Ervine and Mary O'Shea, children of the deceased, and their stepmother, Mrs. Helen O'Shea.

Mrs. O'Shea objected to the children receiving their father's estate valued at about $50,000. She claimed this was community property, acquired after marriage, and could not be disposed of by will. The decision gives the widow the family home at 2201 Seventeenth street, in addition to the bequests made her in the will.

PHONES WIFE, THEN ENDS OWN LIFE.
GRASS VALLEY, Sept. 1.—After telephoning goodbye to his wife and children, Benjamin Schwartz, proprietor of a saloon here, ended his life by inhaling illuminating gas late today. Schwartz was 45 years of age and an old resident. He had remained at his saloon for several days, refusing to go to his home.

FIRST SEATTLE BRIDE IS DEAD IN NORTH.
SEATTLE, Sept. 1.—Mrs. Louisa Boren Denny, the last of the children of the expedition which landed on the site of Seattle in 1811 and founded the city of Seattle in 1851, died today at her home in Seattle. She was the widow of David T. Denny, whose brother, Arthur A. Denny, led the expedition in 1811. The six members of the party still alive were small children at the time of the landing. Mrs. Denny was the bride of the first wedding in Seattle.

GIVES SKIN TO SAVE LIFE OF HER CHILD.
FRESNO, Sept. 1.—Florine Miner, 14-year-old school girl who will enter high school this year, gave sixty square inches of skin to save the life of her neighbor girl, Alberta Musselman. Miss Miner is still confined to the sanatorium, but will be out in time to enter school. Miss Musselman was burned last May when her apron caught fire from a gas stove. Her brother, submitted to a skin-grafting operation, but it was not successful. When Miss Miner learned that her skin would be used to save the life of her neighbor, she volunteered as the substitute.

WOMEN BRAVE IN FLYER PERILS

Telephone Girls Staunch in the Face of Raids of Big Zeppelins.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—Telephone girls bravely during Zeppelin raids and the Irish rebellion which they helped to quell featured the annual report of the post-office department, in conjunction with which the telephone system in this country is operated by the government.

"When the Zeppelin raids have been anticipated, sometimes when they have been going on," says the report, "the women have come out of their homes to their work—even when bombs were dropping. They have played an important part in the scheme of air-raid warnings and have set a very good example to the whole country."

In Dublin, when the bullets were flying and the fires were raging, the women stuck to their work in the exchange, and it was due to them that communication was kept up and that we were able to obtain the military forces which suppressed the rebellion."

More than 25,000 women have replaced men in positions in the postoffice department and telephone system, the report further shows. Out of 86,000 men of military age in these departments, 56,000 have joined the colors and 21,700 others have attested, and only await the call to arms.

Insect Sting Malady Brings on Slow Death

SEA, CLIFF, N. Y., Sept. 1.—John Jacobs, a resident of New York City, who came here for the summer two weeks ago, died here of a malady which physicians say, followed the sting of an insect. Jacobs was bitten about two years ago and since had been in failing health. A medical expert is authority for the statement that there have been but fifteen known cases of the malady in the United States.

LIGHTNING CALLED GREAT AS TONIC

Bolt From Sky Hits Cowboy and Cures Stomach Trouble.

DALHART, Texas, Sept. 1.—According to Mike Keating, a cowboy employed upon the ranch of J. H. Boyce near here, no remedy can begin to compare with a stroke of lightning for curing stomach trouble and restoring a badly impaired appetite.

Keating was standing by a wire fence upon the ranch recently when a bolt came lightning and knocked him over. He was unconscious for several hours and it was thought for a time he was done for.

Finally he opened his eyes and looked about him, and his first words were: "Say, you all got me something to eat, mighty quick; I'm just about starved."

In the group around the cot was "Cookie," who well remembered the hard time he had experienced for many months in trying to supply Keating's dainty appetite and not arouse the stomach pains of which the cowboy was eternally complaining.

"What'll you have—a poached egg and a piece of buttered toast?" inquired Cookie.

"To hell with them things," was the surprising reply. "I want some real grub. Bring on a stew of meat, beans and as much other fodder as you can stir up."

Keating ate the first big meal he had been able to stow away for many months and what is more, he is keeping up the gain.

Upon Keating's body, running from the left arm pit to his feet, with a branch extending across his abdomen, is a red streak a hand's breadth in width that was made by the bolt.

REDHEAD IS NOBLE, SAYS ORGANIZATION

Indiana Has Unique Club Devoted to Protect Selves From Hurmists.

ALEXANDRIA, Ind., Sept. 1.—The red-headed people of Indiana are banding themselves into a protective organization called the Indiana Redhead Society, and there already is prospect of the organization becoming a national one. Sheriff Will Black of this town is the chief organizer. He is now arranging for a state picnic.

The redhead code says:

"He who has red hair is lucky, who has red hair is more fortunate."

"Whoever dares to cast derision upon a redhead shall be guilty of an unpardonable sin."

"Whoever shall dye red hair any other color shall suffer eternal condemnation of all true redheads."

"Whoever dyes his hair red shall be received into this society with open arms."

"Every redhead shall earnestly work to band the redheads of the country into a mighty organization."

"The redhead is fiery, energetic, noble and good."

Sheriff Black now has a letter from an Iowa redhead who wants the Indiana redheads to hold a national meeting shortly after the state meeting and form the National Redhead Society. She pledged herself to secure 2000 members in Iowa for the new society.

Mongrel Wins Home by Rescuing Collie

STAMFORD, Conn., Sept. 1.—Soon after Eugene Miller's collie ran into a swampy field on his place at Roxbury today Miller heard the animal barking frantically. Then the barks became less distinct, and fearing something had happened Miller ran into the swamp, followed by a yellow mongrel that had been following about his place recently.

In a thicket they found the collie in a death struggle with a long black snake, which was tightening its coils about the dog's throat. Miller looked about for a club with which to attack the snake, but his services were not required, as the mongrel gave a savage snarl and leaped into the fray, sinking his long eye teeth into the coils of the snake.

The dying snake loosened its coils and the collie, almost strangled, was released. Soon he was romping thankfully about the mongrel, which has won a place for life in the Miller kennel.

Klondyke Character Dies in the Yukon

SEATTLE, Sept. 1.—"Snookum Jim" Mason, the Indian who, with George Carmack of Seattle, discovered the Klondyke gold field twenty years ago, died recently at Carcross, Yukon Territory. At one time he had $100,000 in gold, nearly all of which he squandered. On a visit to Seattle he threw money from his hotel window to see the crowds fight for it in the street below.

Noted Temperance Advocate Is Dead

OLATHE, Kas., Sept. 1.—John P. St. John, a candidate for the presidency on the Prohibition ticket in 1884, twice governor of Kansas and one of the most widely known temperance advocates in the United States, died here last night. He was 83 years old and had been in failing health since a heart prostration two months ago while on a speaking tour.

TINY GIRL, HANDS TIED, SWIMS RIVER

Only 7 Years of Age, But She Makes Passage of Stream in Safety.

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—Shackled hand and foot! Not the cruel iron kind used on criminals, but narrow silk bandages to keep tiny hands and feet together. Under these conditions, little Dorothy Klump, 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Klump of Philadelphia, swam the waters of the Schuylkill river from a diving board in front of the Philadelphia Swimming Club at Lafayette to perform a swimming feat few experts could dare to undertake.

The Schuylkill river at this point is 100 yards wide, and of all the girl swimmers who visit Lafayette few could negotiate the distance under any conditions other than their favorite stroke. Not only did little Dorothy cross the river in the excellent time of 6 minutes and 30 seconds, but insisted upon remaining in the water for the return trip. She showed no ill effects from the journey to the west shore and was allowed to return. On the return trip the current had a tendency to carry Dorothy out of her course and she actually covered more than 300 yards.

The trial was made under the direction of Noah Marks, swimming instructor at the Philadelphia Turngemeinde, who with three others followed Dorothy across the river in a rowboat, while Mrs. Klump entered the water and, swimming close by, gave words of encouragement to her little champion.

The temperature of the water was at 82 degrees, with very little current, and little Miss Klump was none the worse for her experience. The stroke she used was a sort of side sweep, her body resting in the water on the right side, with head well back and face turned up so that no water touched her eyes or interfered with her breathing.

The demonstration proves the value of this knowledge as a safeguard against possible incapacity of using hands or feet in case of accident, such as falling overboard in street attire.

HUGGER WAITED FOR GIRL GOLF PLAYERS

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 1.—A "Jack the hugger" with a penchant for trying to hug girls in shady lanes of hamlets and suburbs of Philadelphia has created something of a reign of terror in the neighborhood of Ogontz, McKimley and Abington. Yesterday, two motor police of Abington arrested Joseph Jean, Montrose street, Philadelphia, as the hugger.

The latest charges against the hugger are made by Edith Waters and Jeannette Beveridge, each about 15 years of age and living in McKimley. The girls, on their way from Ogontz to McKimley, passed a vigorous struggle and forced their assailant to take flight.

The Abington police have reports of a number of other cases and they are arranging to have the girl victims see the prisoners for purposes of identification. Jean was employed on a golf course at these towns, and detectives employed to hunt down the hugger assert that they pursued him on motorcycles to the Old York road, where he had boarded a southbound trolley car. He offered some money to the bus driver, but was picked up at the Abington police station until tomorrow, when he will be given a hearing.

Actor Shoots Shark Then Calls Camera

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—How Frank Doane, Dore, shot and caught a big man-eating shark in the waters of Long Island sound, near Sunny Brook, L. I., is related by admiring friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Doane were seated on the porch of their bungalow when their attention was attracted by the sight of a triangular object cutting through the water a short distance away.

Mr. Doane obtained his rifle. He fired one shot and a large gray body rose from the water and began to thrash about. At once Mr. and Mrs. Doane ran for their launch and made for the spot. There Mr. Doane managed to gaff the monster, which was badly wounded by the bullet and kill him, while his wife managed the launch. Then they towed the dead shark to land, where they found that he was 9 feet 4 inches long, of a dull gray color and 320 pounds weight.

Mrs. Doane had her picture taken standing beside the dead shark, which was hauled to the mast of their yacht. The shark is being exhibited in the villages of the vicinity.

Heiress Fascinated Married Man; Charge

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 1.—Miss Marion Pomeroy Smith, heiress to $50,000, was an upsetting factor in the family life of staid Hyannis, on Cape Cod, Mass., a community testimony given in the Probate Court, by her grandmother, Mrs. Ruenna Pomeroy. Miss Smith captivated the married man of Hyannis and some were planning divorce to marry her.

The suit was to have Charles Paine of Barnstable, Mass., appointed conservator of Miss Smith's property.

Several letters written by the girl were admitted as evidence. One told of her friendship with a certain Jim Flanagan. In another she wrote: "It is Maurice Flanagan I really love. I really must have him. He has baby blue eyes and a wonderful temper." Flanagan is a magazine writer. He is married and has two children.

DON'T BE KILLED BY AN AUTO.
OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 1.—Maybe it is a crime to get in front of a man's car, but it is a crime to get in front of a woman's car. William Grigsby of Cleveland, Ohio, seems to think so. He has sued W. G. Nicholson of Omaha for $1000 because Nicholson's son, Paul, got under his automobile and killed him.

William Grigsby of Cleveland, Ohio, seems to think so. He has sued W. G. Nicholson of Omaha for $1000 because Nicholson's son, Paul, got under his automobile and killed him.

The Nicholson sons sued Grigsby for $10,000 for the death of their boy. He turned around and sued them for $1000 as bait for the mental anguish the accident caused him. He claimed young Nicholson met death through his own carelessness, and holds that he is the one who is actually damaged, since his nervous system sustained a severe shock, as he is not used to killing people and it was a new experience to him. He also claims the machine was damaged. He asks judgment in the sum of $1000.

Boy Returns to Wed Fountain Sweetheart

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—A kind-hearted Irish woman took a 4-year-old waif into her home some years ago and reared him as her own daughter. When Irene, as the girl was called, was 13 she went on a visit to Wilmette and fell in love with a youth of 18.

A juvenile court officer got wind of the affair about the time the baby came, and swore out a warrant for the boy, but he slipped out before it was served on him. He traveled extensively through the West. Then he decided to go back and marry his child's mother.

When the young couple applied for a license it was discovered that Irene never had been legally adopted, and, in consequence, being under age, could not get a license; but Miss Nellie Carlin, the public guardian, came to the rescue, untangled the legal red tape, and the lovers were married.

The young man listened to a heart to heart talk from Miss Carlin, took his baby in his arms, and walked out of the county building a married man.

Fish Drops From Sky; Tennis Game halted

ASHTABULA, Ohio, Sept. 1.—While Robert Houser and Laura Bratton were playing tennis on a court on Lake road, a 14-inch perch suddenly dropped from the blue sky and landed on the court. The fish flopped a few minutes, gasped, and died.

Looking skyward, Houser and his companion saw at huge eagle hovering far above the court. The eagle had caught the perch in the lake, but had been unable to carry it because of its weight.

The young man listened to a heart to heart talk from Miss Carlin, took his baby in his arms, and walked out of the county building a married man.

Jitney Booze Brings Fortune to Seller

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—There is money in 5 cent whisky, but those who drink it do not get the money. Bernard Hartman made nearly $100,000 selling 5-cent whisky on the Bowery. He died last February, but his will has just been offered for probate. Under the will, his friend, Congressman Henry M. Goldfogle, receives $6000. His housekeeper, Sophia Forster, receives $1500 and the Hartman home and its contents. His widow, from whom he had been separated thirty years, receives nothing.

DENSE FOG HALTS WORK OF MARINE LOOKOUTS.

The marine lookouts at Point Loma other stations along the coast are greatly hampered in their work the past two weeks, owing to the dense fog which has been hanging over the bay. It is almost impossible to sight anything coming along until the craft is up to them. It is stated that the sailing vessels are drifting around the side the heads waiting for the lift or a tug to tow them into port. On her last voyage with 7500 tons of coal for the Western Steamship Company the Norwegian steamer Thor will be here at Oakland tomorrow. She has been delayed by another fog for several months. This will cause the tons of sugar from Manila, consigned to the Smith & Co. Stevedores, are being coming across the Pacific, and will load a cargo of merchandise at this port for Mrs. Victor Johnson, wife of Captain Johnson, received a telegram from her husband, who was away in Oregon, stating that he and five others were saved.

PLAN BULLFIGHT UNDER ARC LIGHTS

Bakersfield Round-Up to Show Wild West Sports of Olden Days.

BAKERSFIELD, Sept. 1.—Typical Wild West scenes will be witnessed here for the next four days during the annual round-up, which has become a feature of the ranch life of Kern county. One of the unusual features of this year's affair will be the staging at night of an imitation Mexican bullfight under powerful electric lights. This probably will be the first time that a bullfight has been held at night.

Stockmen of the county have combined with the merchants of the city in making this year's celebration one of the best ever held. The Labor Council and the Chamber of Commerce also are aiding the event. It is declared that many cowboys and cowgirls have signed up for the many events and will be contestants for the large prizes that have been hung up.

There will be twenty-one events each day, including broncho busting, broncho twisting, bull-dogging, relay races, chuck wagon and stage coach races, chariot races, free-for-all coyote roping, wild mule races, steer roping and other sensational features. Two tribes of Indians are to participate in the celebration in addition to the bull fighters from Mexico.

(By HOWARD R. GARIS.)

"I suppose you are going to take a hop over to your farm to see how everything is coming on today; are you not?" asked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, the muskrat lady housekeeper, as she saw the rabbit gentleman looking out of the window of the hollow stump house one day.

"Why yes, I am," he answered. "I generally do as you know. But is there anything I can get for you, Janie? I haven't gone to the store for you in some time, and if you would like a loaf of sugar, three and a half pounds of yeast cake or anything like that, I'll get it for you."

"You are getting everything twisted, Wiggle. You buy yeast cakes by the piece, and sugar by the pound, while bread comes in loaves."

"I know had something wrong," said Uncle Wiggle. "But is there anything I can do for you?"

"Oh, yes," answered Nurse Jane. "I have any cauliflower growing on your farm?"

"Does a cauliflower smell like roses?" asked the rabbit gentleman.

"Nurse Jane laughed again. 'A cauliflower is something good to eat—like a cabbage,' she said. 'It is not a flower at all, though it is called that. Have you any?'"

"I think I have," answered Uncle Wiggle. "I'll bring you some?"

"If you please," Nurse Jane said. So Uncle Wiggle started over his farm to get the cauliflower.

It grew away at the far end of a big field, and on his journey there Uncle Wiggle heard a sad voice under a bush saying:

"Oh dear! Just my luck! Now I've lost my glasses!"

"Lost what?" asked Uncle Wiggle, quick-like before he thought. And then he was afraid it was the fuzzy fox, or the bad old skilley-scalley alligator. But, as good luck would have it, neither of those unpleasant creatures was anywhere around.

"You seem to be in trouble," said Uncle Wiggle. "Who are you, and why have the pleasure of helping you?"

"I am a bird," was the answer, and, if you will so kind you may help me. I have lost my glasses here in the woods, and I can't see, without them, to find them. I'll be with you in a minute."

"Ah! Then I am just the one who can help you," said the bunny uncle. "I wear glasses myself, and I know what it is to be without them."

"Then, peering through his pink eyes through his own spectacles, and twinkling his pink nose, he soon found the bird's glasses under a bush, and putting them on.

"Oh, now I can see whom to thank!" said the bird. "I'll be with you in a minute. Ever so much obliged to you."

"Pray don't mention it," said the bunny uncle. "I am glad to have had the pleasure."

So, having found the glasses, Uncle Wiggle went to get the cauliflower for Nurse Jane. He was just cutting off some of the big white heads when, all at once, out from behind a stone fence, jumped the bad old fuzzy fox. With one bound he had caught Uncle Wiggle.

"Ah, ha!" cried the fox, waving his dusting brush of a tail and clicking his teeth. "We have not met in some time. But I am glad to see you again. You are just in time for my lunch!"

"Oh, dear!" begged Uncle Wiggle. "Please let me go!"

"No, no. By the hair of my chinny-chin-chin I will not let you go!" cried the fox. "I'll eat you up!"

"I made a mistake! That's what the wolf says to three little pigs. Anyhow I'll not let you go!"

Uncle Wiggle felt very badly, and then, all of a sudden, over in the woods sounded a voice saying:

"Anyhow I'll not let you go!"

"Ha! Who is that?" cried the fox quickly.

"Who is that? I'm a bat!" was the distant answer.

"Come, must hurry away from here with you!" went on the fox, yanking Uncle Wiggle through the woods. "I don't like bats!"

"I don't like bats!" cried the other voice in the woods, and then sounded a laugh. "That's all right!"

"Some one is making fun of me!" spluttered the fox. "I'm going to see who it is!" And away he rushed, leaving Uncle Wiggle alone under a tree.

"Quick now, bunny uncle," cried a voice up in the tree. "This is your chance to get safely home!"

WOMEN WILL BE FETED AT FAIR

Dedication of $30,000 Building Is Opening Ceremony.

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 1.—A new epoch will be reached in women's activities in the California State Fair tomorrow when the $30,000 women's building is dedicated. The real significance of the event lies not so much in the formal ceremonies as the determination with which club women of the State went about securing the splendid structure and filling its art gallery with the choicest of California art works.

The handsome structure will be dedicated to the women of the State in the presence of a representative gathering at 4 o'clock.

Designed primarily for a haven of rest for women and children, it is destined to become the center of interest for all affairs in which women are actively concerned. Nothing that might contribute to the comfort and convenience of women and children visitors has been overlooked. There is a nursery where children will be taken care of, and an emergency hospital fully equipped.

Here is the program arranged by Secretary Charles W. Payne:

Luncheon at 12:30 to the heads of women's clubs.

Governor and Mrs. Hiram W. Johnson and Lieutenant Governor and Mrs. William B. Stephens will be among those present, together with Mrs. Joseph Evans Cowles, president of the National Federation of Women's Clubs.

The assembly will be guests of the directors of the association at the afternoon races.

The dedication ceremonies will be witnessed in front of the women's building. There will be short addresses by Governor Johnson, Mrs. Cowles, Mrs. E. Dexter Knight of San Francisco, president of the California Federation of Women's Clubs, and J. M. Perry, president of the board of directors.

Three hundred school children of Sacramento will sing appropriate songs. Music will be furnished by a boys' band from the industrial school at Yuba.

fox run away?" Uncle Wiggle asked. "I'm the mocking bird, whose glasses you found," was the answer, and made mocking fun of the fox so he ran off into the woods to see who was calling. That's what we mocking birds can do for our friends, and I can glad I could do it for you."

"So, now I can see whom to thank!" said the bunny uncle. "I'll be with you in a minute. Ever so much obliged to you."
